

Choir Murder Mystery "Solution" Is Doubted; People Are Indignant

Deep Feeling Is Shown at Manner in Which Prosecution Has Conducted Investigation.

HARSH THIRD DEGREE METHODS ARE HINTED

Raymond Schneider, in Alleged Confession, Says Clifford Hayes Shot Down Wrong Couple.

New Brunswick, N. J., October 9.—The amazing "solution" of the Hall-Mills murders, exonerating all members of both families, caused a crowd of 500 incredulous townspeople to gather about the courthouse this morning, waiting for the announcement of the alleged confession of Raymond Schneider, 21-year-old married son of the hand of Pearl Bahner, 15, does not explain.

Expressions of indignation because of the manner in which Prosecutors Joseph E. Stricker and Asaiah Beckman have handled the investigation were heard everywhere in the throng about the courthouse. There is obviously a strong public sentiment in New Brunswick against acceptance of the alleged solution which resulted in the arrest of Schneider and Clifford Hayes, a 19-year-old naval veteran with an honorable discharge from the service, whom Schneider is said to have accused.

Says He Witnessed Murders. According to the prosecutors, Schneider signed a statement saying that he was with Hayes when Hayes crept up on the Rev. Edward W. Hall, pastor of the Church of Saint John the Evangelist, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, the attractive wife of James Mills, the church sexton, and shot them to death in a suburban field a month ago. Schneider's alleged statement declared that Hayes mistook the minister and Mrs. Mills for Pearl Bahner and her stepfather, Nicholas Bahner, a former saloon keeper.

While the prosecutors were still questioning Schneider, maintaining the long ordeal which already had caused in his resistance, a new witness was found whose story would tend to discredit Schneider's alleged version. This witness is a woman inmate of the Parker Memorial home for the aged which stands within plain view of the spot where the murders were committed. She said that on the night of the murder, September 15, she heard screams and arising from bed saw two men and a woman in a terrific fight with a man and a woman. Presently she heard several shots.

Schneider's Version. Schneider's version of the scene in the field was obtained after a night of examination. He and Hayes and Leon Kaufman, another youth, met on the night of the murder. Schneider resented Behmer's attitude toward Pearl, but Behmer is a powerful man, and he hesitated to fight him alone, he said.

The three boys followed Behmer and the little girl, Schneider's alleged confession states, but after some time became separated from them. Then Hayes produced a pistol from a holster beneath his sweater jacket, whereupon young Kaufman declared himself out of the expedition and went home.

Schneider and Hayes went to the well-known and popular trysting place under an apple tree on the Phillips farm, and crept up on a couple whom they saw lying in the grass. Hayes said: "They are here; now let me fix them," according to the statement ascribed to Schneider, and began firing. Then they advanced, lit a match and saw that the victims were strangers.

Two days later Schneider and Pearl while "hunting mushrooms" visited the Phillips farm, discovered the bodies and notified the police. They were asked but few questions at the time, and their statement that they were "hunting mushrooms" was not doubted. After two weeks of investigation the prosecutors prevailed upon Behmer to file charges of juvenile delinquency against his stepfather, so that he could be detained for questioning. She asked an audience with her stepfather, however, and after she whispered some words to him he withdrew the charges.

Veers Back to Schneider. During the last week-end the investigation again veered to Schneider and he was brought to the courthouse. Hayes and Kaufman also were picked up. During an all-night inquisition of Schneider and Hayes, newspaper reporters in the corridor outside the prosecutor's office heard the young men moaning and crying as they were being handled roughly. This news spread about New Brunswick and contributed to the widespread disbelief in the story attributed to Schneider.

There are several discrepancies between Schneider's alleged confession and the known facts in the case, which neither Beckman nor Stricker would attempt to explain, but prosecutors asserting that the solved case.

U. S. WILL INSIST ALLIES PAY DEBTS, ASSERTS BURTON

Says There Are Many Reasons Why United States Should Not Even Consider Such Course.

SEES THREAT OF WAR IF DEBT IS REMITTED

Declares United States Treasury Should Not Be Called Upon Again to Aid Foreign Countries.

Washington, October 9.—A strong declaration was made today by Representative Theodore E. Burton, Republican, Ohio, a member of the allied debt commission, against any cancellation of the debts of European nations to the United States.

His statement to this effect made unanimous the opinion on the question of all American delegates to the inter-parliamentary union conference at Vienna, a number of senators who, with Representative Burton, toured Europe and conferred with leading statesmen and publicists having previously declared that the allied debts should not be remitted. Representative Burton conferred with President Harding today, after campaigning in Ohio, will return here for the meeting this month of the allied debt commission with Great Britain's financial representatives.

Against Cancellation. "There are many reasons why the allied debts should not be cancelled," he said. "First, they are binding obligations, a national debt, and their cancellation would throw doubt on national credit, which is an all-important part of all commercial and industrial relations. "Second, these loans were not made from an abounding revenue, but were obtained by borrowings from our people with no small difficulty and with a great deal of sacrifice. There was no thought at the time that they would not be repaid and indeed the law under which our people took our bonds provided for their exchange in kind. "Third, the United States is sincerely interested in world peace. If these debts were cancelled it would lead to an expansion of the military and naval establishments of other countries and thereby bring a threat of war and all the waste it entails. "Fourth, proportionately, the increase in the debt of the United States as a result of the war is greater than

One Year's Pay Will Be Asked For Mrs. Watson

Senator Harris Will Also Ask That All Funeral Expenses Be Paid.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 9.—(By Leased Wire.)—Senator William J. Harris announced today that he would introduce a bill when Congress reconvenes appropriating $7,500 for Mrs. Thomas E. Watson, widow of the late junior senator from Georgia, as one year's salary. He said that he would also introduce a resolution directing that all the funeral expenses for the burial of Senator Watson be paid out of the contingent funds of the senate, and that one month's salary be paid to Miss Sarah Orr, secretary of the late senator, who has been closing out all official matters pending at the time of the senator's death. The resolution providing payment of the funeral expenses will include reimbursement for the private car secured by Mrs. Alice Louise Lytle for the transportation of the senator's body.

Senator Harris today conferred with the sergeant-at-arms and urged him to reconsider the previous decision regarding failure to furnish a private car for Senator Watson's body, but the sergeant-at-arms declined to change his former action. Senator Harris then announced his intention to ask for an appropriation from the senate, and said he believed it would be secured. He conferred with Senator Curtis, Republican whip, and Senator Spencer, both Republican members of the senate appropriation committee. All of the official matters pending in the office of Senator Watson at the time of his death have been turned over to Senator Harris for further handling and final disposition.

LESS CONFIDENCE NOW IN KEMALISTS' CAMP

Allied Military Mission Arrives in Adrianople for Purpose of Reassuring Population.

Mail Service Suspended.

Washington, October 9.—Suspension of general postal service to Greek postal sectors was announced tonight by Postmaster General Work. The stoppage in service includes general mail to Smyrna. The order, which was based, the postmaster general said, on cabled information, applies to "all articles of correspondence in addition to parcel post packages for Smyrna."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Mudania, October 9.—Ismet Pasha will lay the allied demands before the Angora assembly and in the meantime the conference stands adjourned.

Lieutenant General Harrington and Generals Charpy and Mombelli have returned to Constantinople to await the reply of the Angora government. The conference met at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the allies presented their three demands—withdrawal of the Turkish troops from the neutral zones, limitation of the Turkish gendarmerie in Thrace and non-occupation of Thrace by the Turks until after signature of the peace treaty. There was long discussion on the question of evacuation and the various phases of the Thracian problem.

When it became evident that Ismet Pasha did not have the necessary power to decide definitely on these demands, the allied representatives made preparations for their departure.

Less Confidence Felt. There was distinctly less confidence in the Kemalists here today when it became thoroughly understood that there is now complete unanimity among the allies. The plans for dividing the allies having failed, it was realized that Kemal Pasha had the world grieved against him.

The Greek delegates also came into line with the three allied powers, Colonel Mazarakis informing General Harrington that Greece would "conform to whatever measures the allied generals recommended." He also assured the commander in chief that in case of necessity "the whole Greek army in Thrace will rally to the support of Great Britain."

Allied Mission Arrives. Adrianople, October 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—An allied military mission has arrived here and will spend three days before proceeding.

SHERIFF ON TRIAL IN PEONAGE CASE

Jasper Sheriff Denies Charge of Atlanta Negro That He Was Held in "Slavery."

Harvey K. Persons, sheriff of Jasper county, and his brother, W. F. Persons, charged with violation of section 208 of the United States penal code, in connection with the alleged kidnapping of Robert Lee Griggs, an Atlanta negro, who claims he was held in peonage on the Persons farm, were arraigned in United States district court Monday before Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley. The case was incomplete in the afternoon and will be resumed again Tuesday morning.

Persons was sheriff of Jasper county at the time of the famous Williams "murder farm" expose. The indictment against Sheriff Persons and his brother was returned March 15, 1921. Both were charged jointly with kidnapping Griggs in Atlanta and holding him in slavery on their farm in Jasper county. The negro was placed on the stand and related alleged details of his "arrest" in Atlanta and his subsequent removal to the farm where he declared he was compelled by threats of violence to work.

In rebuttal both defendants were placed on the stand and declared the negro was arrested on a misdemeanor charge here. He was arraigned in Jasper county superior court and convicted. The sheriff offered to pay his fine provided the negro would work it out in labor on the farm and the negro accepted the proposal, Sheriff Persons said.

Attorney Marion Smith represents the defendants. Assistant District Attorney Gore conducted the prosecution.

BY WILHELM HOHENZOLLERN (Former Kaiser of Germany)

XVII.

As was natural, I had close and lasting relations in the regular course of events with the ministry of public worship and instruction. Herr von Gossler and Herr von Troit may surely be considered the most important and prominent occupants of this post. In this ministry a co-worker almost without equal arose in the person of Ministry Director Althoff, a man of genius.

I had been acquainted with the dark side of the high school system of education by my own school experiences. The predominantly philosophical character of the training led, in the whole educational system as well, to a certain one-sidedness.

When I was at the Cassel High School in 1874-1877 I had observed that, although there was great enthusiasm for 1870-1871 and the new empire among the boys, there was, nevertheless, a distinct lack of the right conception of the German idea, of the feeling "civis Germanus sum" (I am a German citizen)—which I impressed later upon my people at the laying of the foundation stone of the Saalburg. To create such sentiments and awaken them in the rising generation and to lay the foundations for them firmly in the young hearts was a task somewhat beyond the powers of the teaching staff, in view of the fossilized, antiquated philosophical curriculum.

There was great neglect in the department of German history, which is exactly the study through which young hearts may be made to glow, through which the love of one's native country, its future and greatness, may be aroused. But little was taught of more recent history, covering the years since 1815. Young philologists were produced, but no German citizens qualified for practical co-operation toward building up the flourishing young empire.

Greater Germany Idea Started.

In other words, no youths who were consciously Germans were being turned out. In a small reading club composed of my classmates I often tried to inculcate the idea of the Greater Germany, in order to eliminate parochial and similar conceptions. Admiral Werner's "Book of the German Fleet" was one of the few works by means of which the living feeling for the German empire could be fanned into flame.

Another thing that struck me, in addition to the one-sidedness of the education in the schools, was the tendency among youths planning their careers in those days to turn their attention to becoming government officials, and always consider the profession of lawyer or judge the most worthy goal.

This was doubtless due to the fact that the conditions obtaining in the Prussia of olden days still had their effect in the youthful German empire. As long as the state consisted, so to speak, of government and administration, this tendency among German youths in the shaping of their lives was understandable and justified; since we were living in a country of officials, the right road for a young man to select was the service of the state. British youths of that time, self-reliant and made robust by sports, were already talking, to be sure, of colonial conquests, of expeditions to explore new regions of the earth, of extending British commerce; and they were trying, in the guise of pioneers of their country, to make Great Britain still stronger and greater, by practical, free action, not as paid hirelings of the state. But England had long been a world empire when we were still a land of officials; therefore, the youth of Britain could seek more remote and important goals than the German.

Now that Germany had entered into world economics and world politics, however, as a by no means negligible factor, the aspirations of German youth should have undergone a more prompt transformation. For this reason it was that I, during the later years of my reign, used to compare, with a heavy heart the proud young Britons, who had learned much less Latin and Greek than was required among us, with the children of Germany, pale from overstudy. To be sure, there were even then enterprising men in Germany—brilliant men, can be cited among them—but the conception of serving the fatherland, not by traveling abroad a definite, official competition, but not yet become sufficiently generalized. Therefore I held up the English as an example, for it seems to me better to take the good where one finds it, without prejudice, than to go through the world wearing blinkers.

With these considerations as a basis I won for my German youths the school reform against desperate opposition from the philologists, inside and outside the ministry and school circles. Unfortunately, the reform did not take the shape which I hoped, and did not lead to the results which I had expected. The Germanic idea in all its splendor was first revealed and preached to the astonished German people by Chamberlain in his "Foundations of the Nineteenth Century." But, as is

SEA BOOZE RULING CERTAIN TO BRING BATTLE IN COURT

Congress of Nations Suggested as One Way of Making the Oceans "Safe for Teetotalers."

BRITISH SHIP OWNERS WILL DEFEY MANDATE

Ship Owners Bemoaning Order of Daugherty and Are Predicting Heavy Loss in Passengers.

Washington, October 9.—An international conference to make the seas "safe for teetotalers" may prove to be the only possible solution for the legal and diplomatic tangle threatened by Attorney-General Daugherty's ruling that foreign ships cannot carry intoxicants inside the American three-mile limit.

This is the private opinion of Chairman Lasker of the United States shipping board and different members of congress. The latter view with some alarm the possibility that the whole liquor issue may arise again in forthcoming discussion of the American merchant marine.

Decision of British ship owners to defy the Daugherty mandate by bringing liquor into American ports under seal, as they do now, is expected to be followed by a suit for injunction against application of the American ruling. As Lasker sees the outlook, such suits promise prolonged legal agony, mingled with much diplomatic procedure and, in the interim, continued sale of liquor aboard foreign vessels.

Points Dismal Picture. Lasker paints a dismal picture of American ships coursing the oceans with only such passengers as may put patriotism above thirst. And, in view of what he regards as certain and great additional losses in American ship operation as a result of inability to compete on a liquid basis with foreign passenger vessels, Lasker says the heed is accentuated for quick congressional action on a subsidy measure so that these losses may be made up out of the public treasury.

Defiant action on the part of British ship owners was exactly what was expected by officials here to result from the Daugherty ruling. The British, they said, take the same position as Justice McKenna, Day and Clarke did when they dissented last spring from the supreme court decision prohibiting shipments of liquor within American territory. The justices held that the United States could not impose her views upon other nations, who might wish to use American territory for transportation of wet goods.

Many Involvements. Meantime, here are some of the ever-growing number of "involvements" produced by the new liquor mandate: 1.—Crews of foreign ships are regularly served wine or rum as part of

MANY NEW FACES CERTAIN IN HOUSE

There Will Be a Minimum of 62 New Members—Fourteen Women Are Running for Places.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER. United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, October 9.—Rhode Island politicians meeting in convention Wednesday to select one senatorial and three congressional candidates each, on the republican and democratic tickets, will clean up the pre-election slate of nominees in all states.

In reviewing the results of the primaries and conventions this year, a number of interesting sidelights appear. In the first place, as a result of deaths, refusal of some present members of congress to run for reelection and defeats suffered by others, there will be a minimum of 62 new faces in the house and senate when the 1923 regular session convenes. Death has taken two members of the house, whose places will be filled by new faces. Thirty-two republican and 7 democratic members declined to run for reelection and 15 republicans and six democrats have been defeated in the primaries.

63 New Faces. A contest pending between Representative B. K. Focht and Edward M. Beers in the 18th congressional district of Pennsylvania, will bring the total to 63, if Beers is declared the winner.

Add to this score the possibility of incumbents suffering defeat, this fall as the normal reeling from the 1920 landslide and it is estimated that fully 100 new faces will grace the upper and lower chambers next year. In addition to the possible reelection of Alice Robertson, the nation's Democratic Committee Chairman Makes Vigorous Response to Statement of G. O. P. Leader.

DECLARES OPPONENTS DO NOT CONTROL PARTY

Charges Mistakes and Failures in Republican Administration and Cites Big Deficit.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 9.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Chairman Cordell Hull, of the democratic national committee, came back vigorously today in answer to the over-Sunday statement of Chairman Adams, of the republican national committee, in which Mr. Adams charged that the democratic party had best get "control" of several of its senatorial candidates before seeking control of congress. Several democrats of the senate, Adams charged, voted for schedules of the republican tariff bill and showed other republican leanings and to this chairman Hull replied that the republican statement is mere camouflage and evasion of campaign issues.

The statement of the democratic national chairman says in part: "That republican leaders are trying to dodge the record of their party in congress and in the white house, or to run away from it, is evidenced by the published statement of the chairman of the republican national committee who alleges that because a democratic senatorial candidate had cast a vote for a republican measure or had spoken in mild approval of an administrative act, the democratic party should get control of itself before asking control of congress, calls for a reply only because it is so clear by another attempt to divert the minds of voters from the real issues of the campaign."

Vote With Democrats. "Following the same line as the republican chairman, it could be pointed out on the other hand that when the house 50 republican representatives voted with the democrats to recommit it for further revision, and the entire republican reactionary membership of the senate was whipped into line to vote for the democratic amendment keeping the higher surtaxes at 50 per cent, despite

Negro Mammy, 125 Years Old, Dies in Atlanta

White Friends Help Pay Funeral Expenses of Aunt Lucy Green.

Atlanta's oldest inhabitant is dead. Aunt Lucy Green, colored, who claimed the distinction of having first seen the light of day on this mortal soil 125 years ago, passed away last Thursday at the home of her son, Henry Green, himself 77 years of age, at 163 West Merritt avenue.

As well as she could remember, according to her son, "Aunt" Lucy's early girlhood was fraught with the excitement that preceded the second British war, on her "master's" ranch in Virginia. Long before the civil war she enjoyed the quietude and serenity of those happy years until the emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln freed her.

Her old master had returned from the war penniless, his home devastated, and without the means to maintain the once elaborate household. Aunt Lucy had married and her oldest son, John, who was 20 years old when his master went to war, went along as his body servant. Aunt Lucy came to Georgia. For a number of years she was located on a farm near Marietta with her husband and family. She had been a resident of Atlanta for 40 years, having come here following the death of her husband to make her home with her son.

Although blind for the last 25 years, Aunt Lucy maintained her mental faculties up until the last. She frequently interested many white persons in the story of her life, and during her last illness they did not forget her, and she received the tender care of a nurse and doctor. When her death was reported last Thursday, these white people who had been Aunt Lucy's friends in life, continued so after her passing. A fund was raised and she was buried in a little plot in a local colored cemetery. W. L. Dunn, colored undertaker, was in charge. He stated last night that all expenses incurred by her death and funeral had been paid.

Searchlight Will Support Judge George in Order to Beat Governor Hardwick, Wood States.

BOYKIN SAYS WATSON MEN BACKING WRIGHT

Hardwick Is Busy Preparing Another Campaign Statement to Be Issued Today—Wright to Speak

The whirlwind of activity usually present through the last week of a political race was swirling out in all directions Monday from headquarters of the five candidates for United States senator to succeed Thomas H. Watson.

Candidates were busy all day receiving callers or in conference with delegations of supporters relative to some phase of the campaign. The withdrawal from the race Sunday of Judge G. H. Howard, of Columbus, in favor of Judge Walter F. George, of Vienna, was declared an overwhelming majority for Judge George over the field on October 17. At the other headquarters this was denied and the declaration given out that they were the gainers when Judge Howard quit.

Searchlight for George.

One of the most interesting developments of Monday was the announcement that The Searchlight will support Judge George. The Searchlight is the official organ of the J. O. U. A. M. and is intimately connected with the Ku Klux Klan.

J. O. U. A. M. representative-elect to the legislature from Fulton county, editor of the publication, said he had received large numbers of inquiries from over the state regarding whom The Searchlight would support.

Mr. Wood said: Governor Hardwick's repudiation by the people of Georgia in the recent primary for governorship shows plainly that he is not the choice of Georgians for the high office.

Summary: That we center on one candidate against Mr. Hardwick in order to prevent the possibility of a second primary of the election of the United States senator, is a minority candidate.

There are three substantial gentlemen in the race against Governor Hardwick. All of them have excellent public records, but Judge George seems to be the best possible. As it is absolutely necessary to prevent the election of the state to center on one man of the three, The Searchlight will therefore support Judge George.

Fire in Race.

The retirement of Judge Howard, cutting the field to five candidates, leaves in the race Judge George, Governor Hardwick, Seaborn Wright, John T. Bollenfuehl and John R. Cooper.

Judge Howard was out of the city Monday. Upon his return, it was stated, he will be associated with E. B. Dykes, present manager of George headquarters. Mr. Dykes is a member of the legislature from Dooley county, the home of Judge George.

Governor Hardwick was preparing Monday a statement for release Tuesday. He would disclose nothing of its contents in advance of release. He said that Judge Howard's decision to retire was no surprise to him.

Mr. Bollenfuehl and Judge George stated that owing to the short time before the election and a mass of mail coming in daily requiring a personal answer, they will arrange no schedule of public speaking dates. Requests that he speak have reached Judge George from every county in the state, it was said.

Mr. Wright gave out a statement denouncing the withdrawal of Judge Howard, in which he said: "I have watched with keen interest the progress of the campaign in Georgia, and I have seen the people of this state in the race. From the jump-off I felt there was no chance for him."

First Touch of Fall Weather Brings Circus Advance Agents

Not all the circus aerialists are confined to the dizzy heights of the canvas "big top," as evidenced by the above photo of part of the big end of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus here on Monday, October 23. It was snapped by the circus photographer as he circled high over the crowds and the ponderous elephants.

The first touch of real fall weather in Atlanta Monday marked the advent of the advance advertising campaign of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus, which will exhibit here on Monday, October 23.

Advertising car No. 1, docked in the city with a corps of 35 men in charge of George Goodheart, well-known door publicity specialist, W. L. Wilken, the first arrival of the press agents, immediately paid a visit to the newspapers, and once again the glad tidings are being spread broadcast to kiddies telling of the coming of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus.

It is promised that nothing to compare with the present Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey performance ever before been seen under canvas.

Europe has contributed its best circus features. More than 200 marvelous trained Hungarian stallions, groups of performing wild animals, including African lions, the largest Bengal tigers ever exhibited in America, black panthers, trained polar bears and educated leopards, are among the new features. Thirty-two distinct acts were imported for this year's show, and each is a feature in itself.

Mr. Burton also declared against any further national loans abroad, adding that private credits for American raw materials might and should be arranged, but that the United States treasury should not be called upon again to aid any foreign country except possibly for human relief.

He did not appear to be impressed by the league of nations, several of whose meetings at Geneva he attended. It seemed like a big debating society, he said. He expressed the belief that the United States should have representation on a world court with limited jurisdiction and one not under control of the league. An effort is being made, he said, to detach the present international court from the league.

SEA BOOZE RULING TO BRING COURT FIGHT

their ratings. Can the United States stop this custom any more than foreign countries can stop service of meat and potatoes to American crews within their territorial limits?

2.—As American vessels are held to be American territory, so foreign vessels are held to be foreign territory. Can the government control what is done on the sea can it be made that it can control what is done in foreign embassies and legations?

3.—Without any treaty providing for search and seizure of foreign vessels, what will the government do when foreign ships violate the Daugherty ruling and come in with liquor under seal?

Legal Discussion.

Authorities hold that whatever regulations the treasury department draws to govern the situation, there is certain to arise both prolonged legal and diplomatic discussion between nations which will have the effect of indefinitely permitting foreign vessels to serve drinks while their American competitors continue dry.

Landers contends that since a federal prohibition amendment was necessary to effect enforcement of prohibition within states which had previously voted dry, so a ruling applied to liquor on the sea can not be made effective until there has been an international agreement binding all nations.

From the economic standpoint, Lasker holds that even if foreign ships finally consented to come into American ports without liquor, they could keep continually stocked by supply ships outside the three-mile limit. The result of this, he says, would be a shadow of prohibition as against the substance of an American merchant marine.

Shipping Men Meaning.

New York, October 9.—Shipping men mean with the sadness of farewell as the United States customs collectors make ready for Tuesday's sad, solemn rites of double-crossing the bars on the first two passenger vessels flying the American colors.

Thomas H. Rosbottom, general manager of the United States Steamship Lines, whose vessel is to be the shipping board, has a faint flicker of hope that American travelers will forego the mischievous tinkle of the ice in the glass and the discussion of the genuine ice collar on a sail of real liquor which foreign vessels offer for motives of patriotism.

They are taking our liquor stocks on the President Polk and the President Arthur on Tuesday morning," he said in the hushed, expressionless tones of a stricken mourner.

"We have made our inventories. Our bars, of course, are closed and the liquor is under seal ready for the treasury department trucks. As to the business outlook for American passenger vessels which are so important to our merchant marine, I must let Mr. Lasker, chairman of the shipping board, do the talking. I can only hope that Americans will patronize our vessels and cease to prefer foreign ships, as they have in the past, from motives of patriotism. Our bar sales have not been large at any time. It seems that Americans, regardless of what section they came from, prefer real beer to hard liquor and they drink but little at sea anyway. They just like to know the stuff is there for them if they want it."

Come Well Stocked.

The doublecrossing of the bars on these two ships, the United States Arthur, lies in the fact that they came to New York, well stocked with liquor, in the understanding they would not be molested if they sealed the alcohol on reaching the three-mile limit. Then, after docking, the stewards were informed that the liquor on hand simply had been trapped. It must be surrendered under the Volstead act. But the alien vessels are expected to find means of evading the spirit of the ruling.

There will be stalwart guards about the docks when the treasury men unload the liquor—thousands of bottles of the mellow Scotch, the most sprightly wines, the most vigorous brands.

"How long will it take for this liquor to go through the regular bootleg channels to the Broadway night clubs?"

Mr. Rosbottom pondered the question. Well, really, he waits in a position to say about that. He had heard, of course, that seized liquor defies the laws of the nation and gravitates by trickling out of downtown warehouses into uptown dancing places. Anyway he had troubles enough of his own.

Welcome Test Case.

Appraised of the decision of the shipping board, the American foreign officials intimated that they would welcome a test case and might register a protest in event the British shippers suffered at the hands of the American enforcement officers. Such protests however would touch only the liquor ruling.

Otherwise, the foreign official will await the ruling of the U. S. government. The American ruling, however, has no right to interfere with American domestic legislation.

Press comment is strongly condemnatory of the American ruling. "America now proposes to add another to many curious new precedents of international law to which she has been a party," says The Manchester Guardian.

"But to undermine the principle of the freedom of the seas in order to meet prohibition enforcement is to endanger the whole structure."

"President Harding is stretching his authority far beyond the limits of his office," says The Evening Standard.

British shippers, however, are not so easily deterred. They say that the captain of a British ship entering New York shall not have a little private store of British liquor for the entertainment of the British flag of this British friend and send shivers down the spine of the British lion.

FRENCH ARE STUPEFIED BY RULING ON LIQUOR.

BY HUDSON HAWLEY.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Paris, October 9.—French shipping circles are stupefied by the three-mile limit liquor ruling of Attorney-General Daugherty.

The first reaction, as expressed to the United News, was that the ruling is a "violation of the doctrine of extraterritoriality which holds that a ship sailing under a national flag is the property of that country, subject to its laws, and that its premises are therefore as inviolable as those of an embassy or legation."

Shippers, however, fear that this principle would be established in the courts of the United States, and they are therefore seriously considering ways of avoiding the disastrous effects of the Daugherty ruling. Some shippers are examining the possibility of establishing a tug patrol outside of the three-mile limit, on which unused liquor could be deposited just before entering American waters, to be taken back on board on the return voyage. Nevertheless such an arrangement would be extremely costly, and shippers are debating whether it would be practical from this point of view.

American travelers are likely to favor lines landing at Canadian ports, and shippers here express the opinion that if New York, Boston and other United States ports meekly acquiesce in the ruling it probably will ultimately mean that the piers in American harbors will not in idleness, while Halifax and Montreal thrive with new shipping activity.

Few newspapers have commented on the situation, but those discussing it take the view that the ruling is a political move designed to line up the dry vote for the administration.

M. Dalpiaz, head of the French line, intimated that his company will protest through the ministry of commerce and ask an explanation from the American state department. Having been absent from Paris when the ruling was made, he was reluctant to make an extended statement for publication until he had studied the decision more closely.

BRITISH SHIPPERS WILL FIGHT DAUGHERTY ORDER.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.

United News Staff Correspondent.

London, October 9.—British shippers are preparing to fight Attorney Daugherty's liquor ruling "to the last bottle."

Seven of the big White Star liners will sail for the United States during the week, fully stocked with liquor, in order to test the ruling. Shippers deny the right of the American government to forbid them bringing liquor under the three-mile limit, under seal. They are mustering all forces for a thorough showdown on the principle that "the United States government cannot dictate to British liners."

Officials of the Cunard line told the United News Monday that the Aquitania would not discharge the liquor on board before her return trip to America, but that a full stock will be taken on for the voyage.

Officials of the Cunard, White Star and Royal Mail liners met informally Monday and decided to fight the ruling of the Harding administration. As the first step, an extraordinary meeting of the British members of the North Atlantic conference has been called for Tuesday. At this meeting it is expected that a formal decision to fight the ruling will be made and a definite policy drawn up. The chamber of shipping of the United Kingdom has also called a special meeting to consider the situation. The announcement of the Cunard officials that they will stock up the Aquitania for her return trip is taken here to indicate that the shippers mean business.

Domestic Affair.

The indignant excitement prevailing in British shipping circles is, however, not reflected at the foreign office, where the attitude is more one of amused aloofness.

"It's purely an American domestic affair," said one American official said to the United News. "If the United States wants to prohibit liquor on ships, it is her own business."

The foreign office has taken no action of any sort and does not intend to unless "unfortunate incidents" occur when American officials begin to enforce the ruling on British liners reaching the three-mile line with liquor stocks aboard.

If such incidents occur, formal British protests may follow. An opportunity for such incidents probably will develop within a fortnight when British liners reach the American side stocked up for a test case.

sole congresswoman, there are fourteen other women candidates bidding for seats in the house or senate this year. Foremost among these is Winifred Mason Huck, republican, Chicago, running to fill the vacancy caused in the house by death of her father, the late William Mason. Mrs. Huck is held to have an excellent chance of beating her democratic opponent, A. D. Albert, particularly since there are socialist and farmer-labor candidates in the field to split the protest vote.

JACKSON SCHOOL SITE UP TUESDAY

The city bond commission is scheduled to meet Tuesday afternoon to discuss the Jackson site on the south end of Grant park as a possible location for the Girls' senior high school, it was announced Monday.

At a special session Saturday, the board of education recommended this site as a location for the school, which has been a subject of discussion for the last six months. Whether the bond commission will concur with the educational board was a matter of speculation Monday around the city hall.

The decision of the bond commission regarding the Jackson site will virtually decide action of city council on the Girls' high school site, according to school officials. The property in its present state is unsuitable for the school, council members said, but with a number of proposed improvements could be utilized.

PREACHES ON "LUCK" WEDNESDAY EVENING

Rev. Roy T. Brumbaugh, pastor of the Harris Street Presbyterian church, will discuss "Luck" at a talk to be given Wednesday evening at 7:35 o'clock, it was announced Monday. Numbers, supposedly lucky or unlucky will be discussed, and the Rev. Mr. Brumbaugh invites all who are interested in such a discussion, "with some religious brown in," to be present at his lecture.

STORE PLUNDERED; CLERK SENSELESS; POLICE BAFLED

Macon, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Sheriff's officers are completely baffled by the discovery last night of Arthur Joyner, a clerk, unconscious and covered with blood in the store of J. T. Herrin on the Houston road. Joyner was removed to the county jail and officers began an investigation. This morning Joyner stated that he remembered nothing after sundown yesterday afternoon when he says a man, whom he does not know, came by the store and gave him three drinks of liquor. He remembered nothing about a fight, any cutting or shooting, he says.

The room in which Joyner was found was badly torn up. Things were scattered everywhere and there was a pool of blood. Physicians, however, only found a scratch on Joyner's fingers. The cash drawer had been plundered.

Macon Physician Enters Guilty Plea To Opium Charges

Macon, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Dr. Leighton Brown, local physician, today pleaded guilty to six counts in an indictment charging him with unlawfully dispensing quantities of opium derivatives to patients and was sentenced by Judge William H. Barrett, in United States district court, to serve nine months in the federal prison. A number of other persons also pleaded guilty in narcotic cases and it is believed the federal officers have effectively checked the traffic in drugs in Macon as a result.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; FIVE BADLY HURT

Columbus, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—Five men are in a local hospital and one is expected to die as a result of injuries sustained when a Central of Georgia freight train backed into Major J. Paul Jones' automobile near here on the Buena Vista road at 7 o'clock tonight.

Fletcher Ferrell, cashier of the Columbus First National bank, suffered a broken thigh and internal injuries and may die.

Major Jones, state athletic commissioner of the American Legion, who was driving, was badly bruised and sustained broken ribs. Rhodes Browne, president of the First National bank and a member of the Muscogee county commission, was bruised. Charles Meredith, director of the bank and capitalist, suffered a broken right arm. James Young, Richmond, Va., insurance man, was slightly injured.

CRUSH DRINK MEN IN SESSION HERE

With about twenty salesmen in attendance, a regional convention of representatives of the Orange Crush company, of Chicago, was in session in Atlanta Monday and will continue throughout Tuesday.

Officials of the concern, including N. C. Ward, vice president of the company and inventor of the Orange Crush process, and W. A. Withers, general sales manager, are in the city for the gathering. The Orange Crush company is one of the first national concerns to abandon the national sales convention idea and substitute a series of regional sales conferences in the important business centers, the officers stated.

The phenomenal growth of the Orange Crush company from a small enterprise to an organization with representatives all over the world was described Monday by Mr. Withers.

Although orange crush, lemon crush and lime crush were first sold about seven years ago, the marketing of the products on a national scale was not undertaken until after the war, he said.

N. C. Ward explained with citrus fruits for four years before the first bottle of "crush" was sold. At that time Mr. Ward lived in California, where any variety of fruit was available. Difficulty of obtaining sugar during the war hindered the expansion of the company, but when the national trade was finally sought, the business gained by leaps and bounds, he said.

In 1920 the Orange Crush company spent more than one million dollars for advertising, and that expenditure was repeated. Next year an extensive campaign in the leading publications is planned.

In the volume of sales and from a financial standpoint, according to Mr. Withers, the Orange Crush company is now next to the largest soft drink in the world, the Coca-Cola company being recognized as the largest.

Although national offices of the company are in Chicago, it is headed by southerners, President C. J. Howell, being from Alabama and Mr. Withers being a native of Tennessee.

INCENDIARY BLAZE IS INVESTIGATED

Police and fire officials Monday were investigating the blaze which early Monday morning threatened serious damage to the building on the southeast corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets, and which, according to records at the fire department, was of incendiary origin.

The blaze, according to the report, originated on the second floor in the rear of the One-Price Dental parlors. Considerable damage was done to fixtures and supplies. The stock of goods in the Cook & Co. clothing store, under the dental parlors, and also Edmondson's barber shop, at 3 and 5 East Mitchell street, was damaged by smoke and water.

Women Voters To Hear Speech By Mrs. Felton

Mrs. W. H. Felton, United States senator from Georgia, will be the principal speaker at a luncheon given by the Atlanta League of Women Voters at the Ansley hotel Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock. "Woman Suffrage and the New Citizenship" is announced as Senator Felton's subject.

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke will be another interesting speaker at the luncheon. Mrs. Clarke has visited 27 foreign countries and has travelled through every state of the United States. She will address women voters in St. Louis Friday night.

The speakers will be introduced by Mrs. John T. Moody, of the eighth ward, who will preside. Reservations for the luncheon may be made by telephoning Ivy 4091 or Hemlock 3370.

ALABAMA TRUSTEES FOR AGNES SCOTT NAMED BY SYNOD

Four new trustees, to be elected to the present board of Agnes Scott trustees by the synod of Alabama meeting in Andalusia Tuesday, were named Monday afternoon by the board of trustees of the institution meeting in the office of its chairman, J. K. Orr. These nominations will be presented to the Alabama synod by Dr. P. H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott, who left Atlanta last night to attend the synod's meeting. The trustees nominated include H. C. Armstrong, of Selma; W. A. Bellinger, of Montgomery; Rev. W. R. Bolyns, of Birmingham, and the Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden, of Mobile.

Dr. Gaines will deliver an address before the synod on the growth of the Decatur institution and the progress toward a "Greater Agnes Scott," towards which the people of the south pledged $500,000 in 1919 and 1921, and will tell of the building and expansion program of the institution. While Dr. Gaines attends the sessions of the Alabama synod, Dr. J. R. McCain, vice president of Agnes Scott, will deliver an address on the same subject before the meeting of the synod of Georgia in Augusta, which also occurs Tuesday.

FATHERS AND SONS WEEK PLANS FORMED

"Father and son week" is to be observed throughout the continent of North America the second week of November by church organizations and other agencies actively interested in boys and young men.

The program for the week's observance includes special services on Sunday in the Sunday school and church services, as well as a number of activities for the week, culminating in a banquet or church supper on Friday night for all the fathers and sons of the church.

POLICE ARE PROBING NUMEROUS ROBBERIES

Several robberies were being investigated by detectives Monday, the most important among which was the attack upon Mrs. C. F. Evans in her home at 53 Garibaldi street in the early hours of Monday morning by a ruffian, whom she discovered rifling the drawers of her bureau.

As she screamed the negro seized her hands, then jumped out of a nearby window, making his escape. Police-men later arrested John Crenshaw, 191 1st street, suspected of being the robber.

Other robberies reported Monday morning are as follows:

A platinum diamond pin was reported stolen from 100 Ponce de Leon avenue.

H. Z. Hopkins, of 33 Crest Hill avenue, reported the theft of a platinum bracelet set with five diamonds, while a gold wrist watch belonging to W. C. Rogers, of 324 South Pryor street, was also stolen.

A kodak was taken from the residence of C. E. Hamilton, 92 Peachtree place, and an automatic pistol from the residence of J. H. Hardaway, company, 47 Walton street.

Immediately following the arrest of the negro, Crenshaw, officers searched his home, but failed to find any jewelry or other incriminating articles. Mrs. Evans stated to the officers, it is said, that Crenshaw strongly resembles the intruder with whom she fought.

Baptist Association To Open Fourteenth Annual Session Today

Following opening devotional services Tuesday morning, the fourteenth annual session of the Atlanta Baptist association at the Third Baptist church, officers for the following year will be elected, and the association will be ready to receive the various committee reports which are scheduled for the Wednesday session. Dr. Henry Alfred Porter will speak at the Wednesday session on "The Glory of Going On."

Committee reports on benevolence and social work, covering orphanages, homes, hospitals, temperance and other work, will be features of the Wednesday session. E. S. Echeverde is chairman of the committee. Other chairmen to report are J. W. Willis, J. M. Haymore and W. H. Faust.

Dr. Gaines is moderator of the Atlanta association; F. S. Echeverde is vice moderator; V. O. Kinsey, clerk; F. H. Jackson, treasurer, and H. E. Moody, auditor.

KHORASSAN HOLD FALL CEREMONIAL

The fall ceremonial of the Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, Kiblah temple No. 23, will be held Tuesday at 10 o'clock at Khorassan hall in the Forsyth building. A large number of applicants are expected to be present to receive the degrees. A degree team under the leadership of Lee F. Terrell will be on hand to look after the tyros, according to announcement of the royal vicer, Newman Lazer.

BABY BOY ARRIVES AT HOME OF JONESES

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Turner Jones, of 115 East Third street, were Monday receiving congratulations on every side on the arrival of a 10-pound son Sunday morning. Mr. Jones, who holds a prominent position with the Southern Enterprise, was formerly a member of The Constitution staff, and is widely known. Mrs. Jones was formerly Miss Virginia Lamb, of Richmond.

MEDICAL EXAMINERS BEGIN TESTS TODAY

The state board of medical examiners will hold its annual examination of applicants in Georgia for medical license in the senate chamber at the capitol Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Examination will start this morning at 10 o'clock and it is said that a large class will be on hand.

PEREZ ASKS PROBE OF ELECTION FIGHT

Havana, Cuba, October 9.—Jose Alba y Perez, candidate for mayor of Guanajay, Pinar del Rio, arrived in Havana today to ask for a formal investigation into the election fight at Guanajay last night in which two were killed and eight wounded and to provide protection for himself and his political followers. Elms for the fray was placed by Alba y Perez on adherents of Mayor Martin Mora, candidate for re-election as mayor. He charges that they attacked a parade of manifestants for himself and Juan Inda y Rodriguez, candidate for governor. Captain Ruiz Castillo and a detachment of rural guards are maintaining order at Guanajay as the entire police force is under arrest, charged with heading the attack on the parade.

HILL OPENS REVIVAL AT PAYNE MEMORIAL

A large congregation attended the initial services of the two-weeks evangelistic revival at Payne Memorial church Monday night and heard the Rev. Will Hill, of Wrens, Ga., prominent evangelist of the South Georgia conference, deliver a forceful sermon entitled "The Church's Passion for Lost Souls," which he said was the need of the hour.

Rev. Hill will continue in charge of the revival services for the next two weeks, preaching every night at 8 o'clock. Special song service led by Ralph Porterfield, widely known singer, will begin at 7:30 o'clock. A choir composed of 30 voices will aid in the musical programs.

TOPICAL LECTURES AT ATLANTA CHURCH

A series of six current topical lectures will be given by Dr. William Torrence Stuebel, pastor of the Central Congregational church, at the church on each second and fourth Thursday evenings of the months of October, November and December. The initial lecture, at 7:45 o'clock Thursday night, will be on the "Near East Situation."

Daisy Route Extended.

Washington, October 9.—An extension of rural route No. 2, at Daisy, Evans county, Ga., is ordered effective October 16, Senator William J. Harris said today after having taken up the matter with the postoffice department. The new service will benefit 12 families.

Woman Arrested In Whisky Car, Held With Man

Twenty-two cases of bottled in bond rye and an expensive sedan automobile were confiscated and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Boyd, who claim Atlanta as their home, were arrested early Sunday morning by Prohibition Agent Wilson, several miles from Statesboro, it was announced Monday by N. T. Jones, assistant prohibition director for Georgia.

The liquor, according to prevailing bootleg prices, represents more than $2,500, while the automobile was valued at $3,500. Both defendants refused to state where the whisky was obtained, the officer advancing the belief it was purchased in Florida, as some of the labels were of foreign origin.

Agent Wilson also arrested a former policeman from Screven county who gave his name as White, two hours before. A Ford automobile and 50 gallons of corn liquor were confiscated, it was stated.

EPWORTH LEAGUE UNION WILL MEET TUESDAY EVENING

The October meeting of the Atlanta Epworth League union will be held Tuesday evening at the Decatur Methodist church on North Chandler street, in Decatur, at 8 o'clock. At this meeting the newly formed union orchestra, consisting about 20 pieces, will make its first public appearance, rendering musical selections and accompaniments during the service.

Regular union business will constitute a large part of the program, which will be opened with a short devotional service. Following the meeting refreshments will be served by the members of the Decatur league.

More than 2,000 young Methodists of Atlanta and vicinity are members of this organization through their respective local leagues in the city, and a large number of the membership is expected at the meeting in Decatur this evening.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR DR. HIGHTOWER

Funeral services for Dr. Rufus R. Hightower, prominent Atlanta dentist, whose death occurred Sunday at a private sanitarium, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, 424 Allene avenue, Rev. W. H. Major officiating. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery. Harry G. Poole in charge.

Dr. Hightower is survived by his wife, a son, Rufus Hightower, Jr.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hightower; his brothers, Dr. M. E. E. E., and O. E. Hightower, of Atlanta, and Charles W. Hightower, Jr., of Brundidge, Ala., and three sisters, Mrs. L. M. Fleming, Mrs. H. H. Haisten and Mrs. S. E. Hightower, of Brundidge, Ala.

PLAN ENTERTAINMENT FOR LEGIONAIRES

Eastern American Legionnaires, passing through Atlanta on their way to New Orleans to the national convention, will be royally entertained during their few hours' stay in Atlanta, it was announced by Atlanta Post No. 1, Monday. Final plans for entertaining the travelers were worked out at a meeting of members of the entertainment committee from all the Atlanta posts, which was held in the club rooms, Post No. 1, Monday afternoon.

Basil Stockbridge is chairman of the entertainment committee, and it is stated that every post in Atlanta will have a part in entertaining the eastern delegates who happen to have a few hours' stay in Atlanta. The first contingents will arrive Friday, October 13, and these will be greeted by committees who will see to entertainment.

A booth at the Terminal station will dispense cold drinks, cigars, cigarettes and other refreshments, and representatives of the local posts will direct them to the various places of amusement in the city. The club rooms of Post No. 1 will be open day and night, from Friday, October 13, until nearly midnight the following Sunday, when the Atlanta delegation leaves for New Orleans, and here the legionnaires will be entertained. The national convention in New Orleans begins Monday, October 15 and lasts through October 20.

A committee from the legion auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Rufus Barnett, will see that the wives of legionnaires are entertained. A room for their use will be provided at the Piedmont hotel.

CRISP WEATHER SLATED

Weather Man Forecasts Several More Cool Days.

The outlook for several weeks of very beautiful fall weather is very favorable, in the opinion of C. F. von Hertzmann, local meteorologist, who declared Monday that the drought having been broken, indications are that fair weather with moderate temperatures will continue for some time. The forecast from Washington predicted rain, but this was only for the eastern part of the state Tuesday, Mr. von Hertzmann stated, and Atlanta is slated for a number of fine days.

A temperature of 50 degrees was registered at the local office of the weather bureau Monday morning early, and it is expected that the temperature will hover around this as its lowest point for a number of days, while during the daytime it is expected to rise considerably.

ROANOKE'S ALUMNI MEET HERE THURSDAY

A district meeting of the Roanoke college alumni will be held in Atlanta Thursday evening, according to an announcement received here Monday from Salem, Va.

Dr. Charles L. Smith, president of Roanoke college, and T. L. Keister, an alumnus of Salem, will be principal speakers. The committee in charge consists of W. D. Hull, W. J. Weddington, Joseph C. Logan and Harold F. Davis.

Evangelist Says Preachers Need Fire in Boilers

"Put more fire under your boiler" was the advice of Dr. Charles A. Goodell, noted evangelist of New York, who is conducting the revival at the Wesley Memorial church, to his hearers Monday morning. Dr. Goodell stated that the minister should concentrate on the specific work of the ministry, and not attempt anything that would interfere with their ministerial duties.

The initial service of the week's revival at the Wesley Memorial church opened Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Approximately 2,000 people attended this service and the evening service Monday.

Dr. Goodell will hold meetings daily at 12:30 o'clock at the Palmer building, under the auspices of the Billy Sunday club, who have arranged these meetings for the benefit of those who cannot attend service at the church. A large crowd attended this meeting Monday it was stated in a letter to The Constitution.

NO WOOD ALCOHOL IN POISON WHISKY

The sample obtained from the bottle of alleged poisonous whisky that caused the death of J. W. Mauldin, who conducted a rooming house at 142 1-2 Decatur street, was not sufficient to enable City Chemist Dr. J. E. Acker to analyze, according to information from his office Monday.

However, it was stated positively that the drink did not contain any wood alcohol, as had been suspected. Mauldin was taken acutely ill last Sunday a week ago, when he was carried to the Grady hospital.

His stomach was washed and he returned home in a fairly good condition. He was attacked again late in the afternoon of the following Monday, dying shortly after reaching the hospital. Mattie Lester, negro woman, who lives at 50 1-2 Piedmont avenue, was arrested by City Detectives M. A. Hornsby and Hugh T. Brown, charged with selling the whisky that produced Mauldin's death, and was held in jail until the result of the analysis was known.

$37,500 INVOLVED IN REALTY TRADE

The old dwelling and two duplex apartments situated on the northeast corner of Spring street and North avenue have been sold to C. W. Thompson to Judge D. J. Griffin for $37,500.

The deal was handled by the real estate firm of Lane & Watkins. The property was purchased one year ago for $32,500.

HAMES DRAWS FINE AS UNLICENSED PRIVATE SLEUTH

W. H. Hames, 35, of 95 Whiteford avenue, Monday afternoon was fined $11 by Recorder George E. Johnson under a charge of violating Section 2027 of the city code, which forbids anyone engaging in private detective work without having first been authorized to do so by the board of police commissioners.

Charges against W. R. Adams, of the Adams National Detective agency, for working Hames as an investigator, were dismissed.

Cases against the two detectives were made following the trial in police court of Z. R. Upchurch, 34, of 61 Orme street, under charges of being drunk and disorderly and carrying a pistol.

Hames was present at the trial of Upchurch, and it developed that he had aided in working the evidence for the prosecution.

Hames was defended by Attorney William Schley Howard, while Sam Crane conducted the prosecution.

BOY SENTENCED TO SERVE YEAR FOR BURGLARY

Frank Jones, 17, Monday was sentenced by Judge John D. Humphries in the superior court to serve a term of one year, following his conviction under a charge of burglary in connection with the alleged robbery of the grocery store and soft drink establishment of J. W. Mauldin, 322 South Moreland avenue, several weeks ago.

Two other youths, P. J. Denham and Will Gentry, who were the alleged confederates of Jones, and who were tried several days ago, received sentences of 6 years each.

DYER IS SWORN IN AS CITY COUNCILMAN

Arthur R. Dyer, widely known Atlanta business man, who was recently elected to the vacancy as councilman from the seventh ward caused by the resignation of W. P. Anderson, was sworn in Monday as a member of council by Mayor Key.

Mr. Anderson's resignation followed his appointment as superintendent of the Georgia Baptist orphanage, at Hapeville.

MRS. FELTON RETAINS WATSON'S SECRETARY

Mrs. W. H. Felton, United States senator succeeding the late Thomas E. Watson, retained Monday as her private secretary Miss Sarah Orr, who was formerly a secretary to Senator Watson. Miss Orr is in Washington in the late senator's office engaged in closing up his unfinished correspondence and looking after other details of the office.

THOMAS AND POOLE QUALIFY IN RACE

Judge E. D. Thomas, chief judge of the municipal court, and Attorney J. V. Poole qualified Monday as candidates in the Fulton superior court judgeship race, by the payment of their entrance fees. Attorney R. R. Blackburn and Attorney Walter McElreath definitely announced Monday they will make the race.

The vacancy is now filled temporarily by Judge Shepard Bryan, who has declined to offer for election to the full unexpired term of the late Judge John T. Pendleton.

Judge Thomas was the first to pay the entrance fee of $500. Late Monday afternoon Attorney Poole handed his entrance check to H. B. Cobb, treasurer of the Fulton county democratic executive committee. Blackburn and McElreath said they will pay their fees Tuesday morning. The entry list will close Tuesday at noon.

Judge Thomas received the endorsement of a number of members of the Atlanta Bar association Monday afternoon at a mass meeting of lawyers held at the courthouse. Many tributes were paid to his judicial and administrative ability by prominent local attorneys. Among the speakers were Robert P. Jones and W. A. Fuller.

Walter C. Hendrix was elected chairman of the meeting and Ralph McClelland was named secretary. The gathering went on record as favoring active support by the lawyers for the election of Judge Thomas.

Attorney Murphy Holloway, who has been mentioned as a probable candidate for the judgeship, indicated that he would not make the race when he arose to his feet on a call for a rising vote of endorsement for Judge Thomas.

Mr. Blackburn's decision to make the race followed an enthusiastic meeting of his friends, at which he was strongly urged to offer for the bench vacancy. He has been a member of the Atlanta bar since 1884, and served in the legislature as Fulton's representative for five terms, which is said to be the longest period ever served by any Fulton legislator.

SOUTHERN FLYWEIGHT TITLE AT STAKE TONIGHT

Wilson and Jeff Ready For Gong---Fine Card At the Auditorium

Silver and Nappie Will Keep Fans Interested In Their Ten-Round Battle. Two Other Prelims.

With Little Jeff of Baltimore, and Claude Wilson ready for their fight tonight with the exception of the quality of weighing in at 3 o'clock, the stage is all set for the championship bout at the Auditorium tonight. Both fighters are to make 112 pounds three today and according to the statements of their managers both campers are down to weight.

Wilson worked out at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the fight is in his hands. He is a fighter who could attend the session. He was very impressed with the condition and the speed of the Slagtown south, and more than one was heard to state that his money was going to be on Wilson.

Little Jeff's workout started at 10:30. He started off with a couple of rounds of shadow boxing, and then boxed two rounds with Tim O'Dowd. After the workout Tim expressed himself on the capabilities of the little boy from Baltimore.

"He's a fast, clever, little boy, Tim," said Jeff.

"Any time that you think that you are going to have any luck looking for punches at him, you're out of luck completely. He'll beat you to the punch every time. He's strong too, and he will be an advantage for him in a bout with Wilson," Tim stated.

"What about Wilson's chances," we asked. "You've fought him," we asked. "Well, that's a pretty hard question," Tim replied. "But of the two I believe that I would rather fight Little Jeff. He's a little shorter and I would have him outstrung in punches."

Little Jeff is well named. He is a fighter who is close to the ground than any fighter that has ever shown in Atlanta. That is unless Tom Thum showed his wares in a real ring. He is less than five feet tall by a little more than an inch, and his 112 pounds are all in his shoulders and arms. He makes him an ideal small fighter machine. His height seems to be his only handicap. This may affect his showing with Wilson, or may alter Wilson's showing with him, depending on the point of view.

Great Battle in Store

The battle tonight should be a great scrap. Wilson is a fighter. He will go in and mix things with any fighter in the ring—he fights to win. He is the type of fighter that Atlanta wants to see. He battles, and in fighting himself he will make the other man stop out, whether he has ambitions in this direction or not.

Little Jeff may not intend to fight his best here, but this is very doubtful. Whether he wants to fight his best or not, is not, however, going to slow up the fight. It may shorten it. But if Little Jeff wants to be in there listening while the referee tolls off the fatal "ten" he is going to have to fight about the best he knows how. Wilson will force the fighting if Jeff doesn't, but from Jeff's workout with Tim O'Dowd there is not going to be the slightest tendency on the part of the Baltimore lad to let Wilson force the fight.

In fact the other state of affairs is liable to be the case. Both of them are going to be in there forcing the fighting and when this happens there is going to be enough fighting for the most rabid fan.

Nappie-Silver Bout

The other headliner, or the semi-headliner on the card for tonight are in shape for their battle. Lew Silver finished his training at his own club yesterday afternoon and expressed himself to be in shape for his bout. Kid Nappie also tapered off in his training and is in shape.

This bout is going to be a boxing match between a "rapper" and a "broadsword." Nappie will take the part of the "broadsword" and he will attempt to beat down Silver's ("the rapper's") defense long enough for him to get in a finishing blow.

Silver on the other hand will be jabbing and stabbing at Nappie, trying to keep him off balance and from getting in a hard punch.

This bout will crowd the main event for real interest, and this fight is going to settle a lot of arguments as to the respective merits of a boxer and a fighter.

Silver is not a boxer alone. He carries a dangerous punch as well as for the reason the bout will be the more nearly even. It will not in any case be one of the much cursed "point" battles. Hard punching and knockdowns will to all appearances feature this bout. Two other preliminaries complete the card.

Tickets for the fight are now on sale at the regular downtown prices, and in spite of the class of the bill there has been no advance in prices. Ladies will be admitted free, and boys' knee trousers will be admitted for half price.

There has been an assuring advance sale on seats. Early shopping seems to be the rule rather than the exception. The local fans since the legion incorporated real class in their bills. Rather than risk disappointment it is well for those who want the better seats to do their shopping early.

MISKE STILL AFTER WILLS

New York, October 9.—In town of a manager, Billy Miske, the St. Paul light heavyweight, twice ironed flat by Jack Dempsey's famous iron Mike, is trickling about New York and making shadow passes at Harry Wills. Having showed over Fred Fulton and Bill Shade in one and two rounds respectively, Miske submits in a screaming second-round, which is his manager's voice, that Wills over him the courtesy of knocking him out.

But if Billy should beat Wills, this would mean the privilege of being battered thin all over the canvas by Dempsey a third time.

Miske engages in a dispute with Max Baer, who is a contender for the Middleweight title, next Friday night in New York. He and Miske are on for 10 rounds to a decision.

PREPS TAKE UP PRACTICE

BY ROY E. WHITE

The Atlanta prep football teams were in action on the various practice grounds early Monday afternoon in preparation for the games of Friday and Saturday. This week will be much harder than last because of the difficult games for Friday and Saturday.

Tech High will be one of the teams to do some overtime practicing, for they realize that the Richmond academy eleven from Augusta handles the pigskin with no little ability.

The Richmond team will come to Atlanta for its first time, and from the reports of former players of Richmond, it will be an eleven that will live up to its former records. The team this year is one of the best in the history of the institution. They have been working hard all practice season for the game with the Smiths and are coming to Atlanta with blood in their eyes.

University and Boys' High started their week of practice with all the rivalry that formerly existed between the two schools, for they formally open up the real Atlanta prep football season at Ponce de Leon Friday afternoon.

Boys' High Outwitted

Both Boys' High and University came out from their foreign games Saturday with practically no injuries. Boys' High was overwhelmingly beaten by LaGrange High. The fact that they were outwitted and were playing against an experienced prep squad was the cause.

University ran over the Newnan High eleven by a score of something over 40 points. Coach Kaliska gave all the recruits a chance to get into the fray.

The Marist team had a hard game with the Powder Springs eleven, but finally came out on the long end of a 12 to 0 count. Marist will play the Commercial High eleven Friday afternoon on the Marist campus.

The G. M. A. team will meet a worthy opponent in the Newman High eleven on Newman territory Saturday afternoon, in their first road trip of the season.

The prep football fans of Atlanta will be keenly interested in the University-Boys' High game Friday afternoon, and on Saturday morning the Tech High-Richmond game will hold them for a while.

ORIOLES WIN WITH HOMER

Baltimore, Md., October 9.—Baltimore won the fourth game of the world's series from St. Paul here this afternoon, 7 to 3. With the score tied in the ninth, three men on bases and one out, Mayo, of the Orioles, broke up the game with a home run in the right field bleachers. It was his second homer of the series, he having broken up the first game with a circuit clout. This victory put Baltimore further in the lead, three games to one.

Groves and Benton, who started on the mound, were both knocked out. Parnham went in for Baltimore in the sixth and held the Saints scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Hall relieved Benton in the ninth after Walsh had doubled and had made third on a short single by Bentley.

After Boley went out to first, Bishop was purposely passed, filling the bases. Then McAvoy broke up the game with his home run.

Three Yale Men Out.

New Haven, Conn., October 9.—Yale started practice today for the game with University of Iowa next Saturday with three first string men—George Becket, Charles O'Hearn and Eddie Bench—absent from the squad. Becket suffered a broken bone in one hand in the North Carolina game Saturday and Bench twisted a knee. O'Hearn has been out of the game with a pulled tendon. It is believed O'Hearn may be able to play for a short time Saturday, but Becket and Bench are expected to be out for some time.

Football Taking Its Place in Sun

Yale Eleven Is in Doubtful Shape

New York, October 9.—If Babe Ruth will be so good as to tote his batting average over into the backfiles, which should be no trouble at all, considering the fact that he has been a member of several hundred football teams would admit to have some attention while they churn up the topsoil at centers of comparative learning from higher Columbia to yonder Seattle.

The world series with its disproportionate rumpus distracted attention from the early season games which was a mercy in some ways. But as nature heals away the memories of yesterday's hangover, she also kindly blots out the immediate horrors of such as the New York Yankees and the series is now forgotten. That is official but subject to revocation should the exigencies of gossip so demand.

The football season is too young to enable a backward-looking survey with much authority. Yale is in doubtful shape for the bout between the two teams. The Harvard team, the blue against Brother Howard's Iowa team at New Haven next Saturday, the second of the season's "intercollegiate" games, and the first eastern game ever contracted for by an Iowa team.

Yale Uncertain.

Carnegie Tech out-gained Yale at straight football a week ago and no doubt North Carolina in last Saturday's mud-larking in the bowl at New Haven. The Tar Heels were through the first half of the game with a black three points, also, and these matters denote a spongy condition of the front line which should be cured before Brother Howard brings the western conference title holders to meet his alma mater.

Charles O'Hearn and George Becket of Yale, being injured and having no prospect of recovering by next Saturday, it is up to Tad Jones to introduce a new quarterback and he is grooming Neidlinger, the halfback, who worked in the brain department in the latter part of the North Carolina game. Incidentally, Yale did win, 18 to 0, but her goal would have been crossed had the southerners been a little more careful of penalties.

Kansas revealed not so much her own weakness as the Army's strength and unerring proficiency in the visit of the Jayhawkers to the plain at West Point last Saturday, which resulted in an unexpected defeat for the westerners. Next Saturday the soldiers play Alabama Poly at West Point. The Kansas were never equal to the Army's linemen, and the tackling of the cadet backfield was an amazing realization of every coach's ideal of certainty and integrity.

Harvard was well satisfied with the 20 to 0 victory over Holy Cross, but the third of the big three, Princeton, still needs to be brought along before the Harvard game one month hence. The Tigers fumbled much too much for the composure of the students whose winter overcoats depend on the Chicago game in Chicago two weeks from Saturday and the line was pushed back for numerous first downs in the game with Virginia at Princeton.

Dave Koetzla, Atlanta Favorite, Enters Southeastern Fair Races

Three-Day Speed Program Will Get Under Way Thursday—Several Famous Pilots Entered.

Premier performers of the dirt track world, apud describes the list of drivers that have entered the auto races to be held on the first three days of the Southeastern fair, beginning next Thursday, according to Secretary R. M. Striplin, who is very enthusiastic in his interest in the annual gasoline classic at the fair.

Six teams a day for the three-day program will make up the speed card and all the drivers are entered in each event. Some of the fastest cars in the world will make their appearance, some of them for the first time on the Atlanta track.

Dave Koetzla, well-known in Atlanta racing circles, is one of the most prominent drivers entered for the three-day meet. He is coming south for the first time since the spring of 1921, and is bringing what he says to be the fastest point he has ever built. Dave will drive an Apperson car.

He will have for his greatest rival here Les Allen, of Chicago, who will drive a famous golden Submarine. Al Striegler has named a Simplex for his mount and it is reported that he has his fast machine on the peak of condition for the events here this week.

Races Here Close Season.

These races will have more to do with the International Motor Contest association records for the year 1922 than any other meeting in the country. Winding up the season as they do for the racing pilots.

An effort has been made by the local officials to obtain an electrical timing device in order that any records made during the fair may not be doubted in the least by officials of the Motor Contest association. Out fairness to the drivers it is believed to be sure of their records and not depend on several timers whose watches frequently disagree, and for this reason it is desirable to have an electrical timing device.

A complete list of the professional drivers that have entered is given below with the name of the mount each will drive.

GEORGIANS BACK HOME

With heads bloody but unbowed, the two-score men who made up the University of Georgia's invading football squad returned to Georgia Saturday night from Chicago, reaching Atlanta about 9 o'clock and departing immediately for Athens on the train which had been held for them forty minutes after its regular hour of departure.

The boys were all in high spirits in spite of their decisive, not to say painful, defeat at the hands of the Maroon marauders on Star field. One such thing as an alibi was to be heard from Bulldog lips. They had met a better team, met them under circumstances which their supporters say were unfavorable—although the Bulldogs don't offer that as an excuse—and they lost, 20 to 0, Saturday.

"Goat" Tanner, one of Georgia's plugging line backs, was the mark of the encounter on his hardy person than any of his team mates. It seemed that every man on the Chicago eleven had jumped square on his head with mud cleats at least once during the struggle. But he will be back in action when practice begins Tuesday on Sanford field.

Major Boon Found Dead.

Hot Springs, Ark., October 9.—Major John A. Boon, U. S. A., stationed at the army and navy general hospital here, was found dead at his residence today. Major Boon had been living alone for several weeks, his wife and baby having been visiting relatives at Fort Sill, Okla. Death resulted from natural causes. Major Boon served in the Philippines, on the Mexican border and in France and was widely known in army circles.

Horace Mitchell Dies.

Kittery, Me., October 9.—Horace Mitchell, who organized 1,200 corporations doing business in other states, many of them of million dollar capitalization, under the laws of Maine, died today. He had served in both houses of the legislature and was formerly proprietor of the Chamberlain Hotel.

BUDD FACING REAL FOEMAN

Nashville, Tenn., October 9.—(Special.)—The south's greatest championship bout is sardered for Nashville this week. It has been many a day since, if ever, that Nashville has landed a bout of the caliber of that one carded for the Hippodrome Friday night. Coming as it does immediately preceding the Michigan game, a splendid attraction is thus afforded those of the 10,000 visitors expected in the city for the big Michigan-Vanderbilt classic, in addition to the local ring fans.

The work of Friedman, who holds a decision over Benny Leonard in a so-called non-decision bout last September, is certainly of a quality to justify the heavy expense of bringing a man of his caliber to Nashville.

Budd, on the other hand, is the class of the Dixie battlers in his class. Young Stribling, who had victories over everybody he had met up until the time he met Budd, was decisively defeated. Next came Mel Cogan, who also tasted defeat, and later Joe Wolfling, the Chicago lightweight of national fame. His ability to box has kept him on his feet through his entire career, and he has yet to hit the canvas during a bout. Many fans here who have seen him box in other cities believe that his remarkable hitting power will enable him to knock out the noted Friedman.

The referee has been carefully selected for a match of the importance of this one. Dave Miller, who officiated in the Joe Lynch-Pal Moore bout and Benny Leonard-Ever Hammer championship bouts, as well as having been selected to work in the postponed Jack Dempsey-Bill Brennan bout at Michigan City, has been signed to come to Nashville for the affair Friday, thus insuring a fair deal for both contestants. Much depends on the outcome of the bout, as the winner, if the bout should be decisive, will doubtless get a chance with the champion of the division later in the season.

Defeat by Chicago Will Bring Georgia to Form, Declares Camp

Few Upsets Marked Saturday's Games, Yale and Harvard Having Splendid Workouts.

BY WALTER CAMP.

New York, October 9.—With the exception of Pittsburgh, who was humbled for the second successive season by Lafayette, the important elevens of the country suffered no reverses on Saturday and thus are resuming practice today with no serious, irradicable plots upon their escutcheons.

There is no coach who doesn't place proper value upon a hard, grueling contest at this stage of the season.

It informs him as to the weak spots of his eleven in a way that would otherwise be impossible, seasons the players and lets them know at a formal period in their department what rigid opposition and hard knocks mean. Also the acid test is applied upon such offensive equipment as the coach has given his eleven.

Yale and Harvard both had workouts to their liking. They were hard enough to put the teams on their mettle and yet not so hard as to extend the big fellows desperately. Princeton had rougher going against Virginia, which came north with a good line and back. Atlanta eleven or thereabouts is going to bring no humble team to the Yale bowl next Saturday.

Play was mainly in Virginia territory but the Tigers could make no touchdowns. As for Yale, North Carolina out-rushed her and blocked three Eli punts.

Georgia's defeat by Chicago was not as surprising as the size of the score, 20 to 0. The Athens eleven started the season with high hopes. Possibly this defeat will bring the Bulldogs to form.

Columbia produced a splendid back field and a good line against Amherst. The Blue and White looks like a coming team. In the south Georgia Tech was held to a surprisingly small score by Davidson. Evidently the football idea is spreading like a running vine throughout the small southern colleges.

Penn State performed well against Gettysburg, thus showing logical and normal development. The Army did well to defeat Kansas 13 to 0. The Cadets are being brought along slowly but surely. Dartmouth gratified her admirers by the showing against Marist and the Navy had nothing more than a breather against Western Reserve.

In the west the only surprises were Ohio State's weak showing against Ohio Wesleyan and Indiana's scoreless tie with DePaul. In such manner the lowly arise to deal blow for blow with the big fellows. But Iowa's overwhelming defeat of Knox shows clearly that Tad Jones' brother is going to bring no humble team to the Yale bowl next Saturday.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

7 AGES WELCOMED BY WGM LISTENERS

Return to Constitution After Absence—Steinway Duo Art and Victor Numbers Tonight.

Last night listeners were treated again to Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, and incidentally, some of the best dance music that is produced in the whole south.

The program last night by the Aces was a noteworthy one in which some of the specially arranged Warner numbers were offered. The "Low Down Blues," a special Warner selection, was one of the biggest hits last night on the program by The Constitution music makers. It brought a flood of telephone calls to Station WGM and after its presentation numerous requests were received.

Only one or two of the requests were filled, however, for time did not permit the giving of more. The Aces must do in the matter of requests to fill them when possible and take them in the order in which they are received.

One of the hits of last evening was "Kiss Me Again," played at the request of listeners. The number was offered by B. H. Warner, director and pianist of the orchestra, and Halph Bennett, violinist of the orchestra. It was beautifully done.

For the opening selection the Aces played "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" from "Chauve Souris." This number has not been heard for a long time and was heartily welcomed last night by the listeners.

The other numbers offered on last night's program were "Three O'Clock in the Morning," "Nobody Lied," "Tricks," and "My Rambler Rose."

The Aces will not be in Station WGM tonight because of an engagement in Macon.

On tonight's program The Constitution will offer at 8 o'clock some of the newest Steinway duo-art reproducing piano selections and several of the latest Victor records. The records are offered through the courtesy of the Cable Piano company, while the duo-art numbers were arranged by Phillips & Crew.

LISTENING IN

A storage battery that is given a short "booster" charge at the end of each evening's use will last longer and the plates will be kept in far better condition than a battery that is allowed to discharge completely before recharging.

So far there seems to have been no confusion or any interference between stations broadcasting on 300 and 400 meters simultaneously. On the evening of October 2, when the new eastern schedule went into effect, it was an enjoyable treat to listen to two first-class stations, such as WJAZ and WJZ, as they worked on the two waves without overlapping.

Father-in-Law's Murder Is Laid To Houston Man

Perry, Ga., October 9.—J. B. Watson, charged with the murder of his father-in-law, J. B. O'Neill, will go on trial in Houston, superior court Wednesday before Judge H. A. Matthews. He will plead self-defense, it is expected.

O'Neill died from the result of a blow struck on his head by Watson, who swung an iron nut attached to a cord.

RAILROAD COMMITTEE MEETS AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—The standing committee on public relations of the Seaboard Air Line railway, which met in Washington last month, will hold a meeting in Savannah next Saturday morning. M. J. Caples, of Norfolk, Va., vice president in charge of engineering; W. J. Stanley, of Atlanta, vice president; and Clement Stucker, of Savannah, director of development, will attend. Important business is slated for the Savannah conference.

PROMINENT MERCHANT GAINS 21 POUNDS IN THIRTY DAYS

WAS TOO WEAK TO WALK, HAD LOST APPETITE

After Having to Practically Give Up Business, is Now Well and Strong, Enjoys Three Heartbeats a Day, and Sleeps Like a Kid.

MARTHAVILLE, La., Sept. 30.—I am eighty-one years of age and have enjoyed phenomenal health all my life, not having been confined to bed with sickness since 1872. In May of the present year I began to lose flesh, indigestion was manifested, appetite failed, no pep, complicated with insomnia. This condition continued until my weight was reduced to 144 pounds, and I became so weak that I staggered in my walk and was barely able to go 200 yards to my home from my place of business. In fact, was all in and nearly dead and out.

When I had become nearly "hors de combat," I happened to notice your offer of Ironized Yeast in the "Shreveport Times." Thinking I might be deficient in iron and vitamins, I gave an order to Sauerger Brothers for six packages, of which I took two and in less than thirty days I had gained my customary weight (165 pounds), gaining 21 pounds in that time, can now eat and enjoy three hearty meals a day, and sleep like a kid.

In conclusion, what I say, that the gain in weight is good, solid flesh, no flabbiness, and I feel as well, and as able to attend to my business as I was ten years ago. These facts can be attested by nearly every person in this place.

Hears Station WGM in Iowa On Crystal Detector Set

What is believed to be a record in reports of reception of Station WGM's signals was received by The Atlanta Constitution yesterday in a letter from Max Rouse, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Mr. Rouse reports hearing Station WGM on a crystal detector in Mt. Pleasant, which is 800 miles airline from Atlanta.

A portion of Mr. Rouse's letter, which is sworn to by a notary public, Ross Walker, reads as follows:

"I am writing this letter to tell you of an unusual experience I had the evening of October 5. I was testing out one of the small crystal receiving sets given away by a local store. I thought I might catch WOC (Davenport, Iowa) which is more than 75 miles from here.

"I caught some signals and thought I had WOC, but I was almost taken off my chair when I heard the announcer say 'This is Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution.' Then you went ahead with some code practice, and if I caught you right, you sent the letter 'G' and then went to a code review.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

LESSON NO. 169.
Regeneration With Electrostatic Coupling.

The popular idea of a regenerative receiver is an audio tube receiver with a tickler coil to couple to the grid circuit or two variometers to tune the plate and grid circuits. It is possible to get regeneration by means of electrostatic coupling applied in the manner indicated in the diagram. This arrangement involves a combination of the plate circuit tuning method and the coupling feed back method to secure regeneration.

In the diagram "L1" is the coupling coil of the secondary circuit by which the energy is transferred from the primary or antenna circuit, "L2" being another portion of the secondary circuit and may be a variometer. "C1" represents a plate circuit tuning inductance and may be a variometer also. The telephone and the plate battery are shunted by a fixed condenser to by-pass the radio-frequency current. "C2" indicates a fixed condenser common to both the plate and grid circuits inserted in the common filament lead constituting the feed back condenser. This condenser is shunted by an iron core inductance coil having a very high value of inductance. The purpose of this coil is to complete the plate circuit for a continuous or direct current flowing into this circuit at the same time, not allowing the radio-frequency energy to pass. The radio-frequency currents find a path of low impedance through the condenser "C1."

When a positive charge is on the grid there is an increase in the plate current and the alternating component of the plate current charges the condenser "C1." The condenser "C1" discharges through the grid circuit reinforcing the oscillations in that circuit. When a negative charge is placed upon the grid the plate current is reduced and the inductance coil "L3" discharges into the coupling condenser "C4," charging it in the opposite direction to that caused by the positive charge on the grid and a resulting increase of plate current.

The condenser "C4" discharges through the grid circuit reinforcing the oscillations in that circuit.

The circuit herein described is excellent for the reception of the longer wave lengths, that is, the lower frequencies. The ordinary regenerative receiver employing two variometers and dependent upon the capacity of the tube to secure regeneration works very efficiently on the shorter waves, and in order to secure best results the secondary shunt condenser must be of small value.

Applications of the circuit shown have been extensively made in certain types of navy tuners which employ condenser feed back systems in the form of Eten oscillators. It is noted, however, that the tuners which have this feature are designed principally for long wave work and will not oscillate on the shorter waves.

The A B C's of International Morse Code

BY A. W. SHROPSHIRE

The Letter "Z."
For today we will take up the last letter of the alphabet. The letter "Z" is two dashes and two dots. It is not hard to remember, but is one of the last letters usually mastered on account of its seldom being used.

Remember, that you can not expect to really master the code just by listening to our daily lessons. The time that we are able to devote is but enough. But if you will get a buzzer, battery and key and practice along these same lines, you should be able to read a goodly portion of the telegraphing that is in the air in a short while.

The letter "Z" will be transmitted at 6:45 and 9:45, followed by the usual review of letters previously learned.

Following is the review that was transmitted on yesterday's schedule: Paid, pair, pin, these, those, man, don't, pain, run, kid, must, bat, bear, bit, save, beat, peg, some, peat, gin, give, gave, we, won't, sing, save, see, heard, that, here, him, hiss. The man is going to town.

VOLPI PROGRAM SET FOR TONIGHT

Miss Bittick and Miss Saville Heard in Entertainment Numbers on Monday Night.

Tonight between 9 and 9:45 o'clock Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, will present another excellent program under the direction of Signor E. Volpi, Atlanta teacher of voice. Artists and numbers on tonight's program under Signor Volpi will be announced at the concert hour by radio-telephone.

Last night at 9 o'clock from Station WGM Miss Ethel Bittick, soprano, and Miss Cora Thomson Saville, pianist, gave an unusually delightful recital of voice and piano selections. Both Miss Bittick and Miss Saville have been heard before from Station WGM, but the impression they made in last night's recital was considerably better than the impression they gave in previous concerts.

Miss Bittick has a sweet soprano voice and has excellent range. Last night in her vocal numbers she played her own piano accompaniment. Miss Saville is talented as a pianist and her numbers last night were excellent. She played two MacDowell compositions that were remarkable interpretations of this composer's work. Between 9:45 and 10 o'clock Operator A. W. Shropshire gave his regular demonstration of reception of international Morse code, a feature of Station WGM's programs that is becoming more and more popular as the lessons progress.

Mr. DeAngelis came to Atlanta especially from Macon to address the audience of Station WGM. His fine humor delighted listeners in hundreds of cities into which Station WGM reaches.

MATERNITY LAW WILL BE TESTED

Washington, October 9.—Massachusetts' request for permission to test the constitutionality of the federal maternity law was granted today by the supreme court and the process ordered returned on January 2, 1923.

Massachusetts attacked the law on the ground that it "used" authority belonging to the states and established a system of government "whereby certain governmental functions are performed by co-operation between the federal government and said states" from which Massachusetts is excluded by reason of its assertion of sovereignty rights.

To accomplish the enforcement upon state rights the federal government, Massachusetts asserted, offered to make available an appropriation conditioned upon expenditures by the different states and their co-operation in giving effect to the law.

COOPER WANTS BEER AND WINES, HE SAYS

Perry, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) John H. Cooper, of Macon, candidate for United States senate, addressed voters at 1:30 o'clock today in the superior court room. He made the announcement that he was not the candidate of any body of politicians or any convention or any newspaper.

He said his platform is freedom of speech and the press of the American people, organized labor and reduction of freight and passenger rates.

He said he favored the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer. He wants Governor Hardwick to resign the office of governor if he intends to run the race through for senator. He eulogized the late Senator Watson.

Negro K. of P. Banquet

A banquet was given at the colored branch of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening in honor of H. L. Ferrell, who was recently elected grand keeper of records and seals in the K. of P. organization of the state of Georgia.

Addresses were delivered by Major General R. R. Jackson, of Chicago, Grand Chancellor Walter Reid, of Macon; B. H. W. Brown, of Augusta, treasurer, and Dr. G. N. Stoner, of Augusta. Music was furnished by the Third Georgia regiment band.

Plenty of Time Left for You

In The Constitution's Familiar Quotations Game

If you haven't started this new Game yet—YOU HAVE JUST AS GOOD A CHANCE OF WINNING THE BIG $1,000 PRIZE AS ANYONE ELSE!

All pictures, back of today's, can be secured at The Constitution.

Here's how: All you need do is get a copy of the OFFICIAL CATALOGUE OF QUOTATIONS (Price 40c). This list will furnish you with the titles from which you can pick your answers. In addition, it contains coupons which you can redeem for the first 30 illustrations. YOU CAN GET IN THE GAME TODAY BY REDEEMING THESE COUPONS AND GETTING ALL BACK PICTURES. Plenty of time will be allowed to solve them, as we are going to allow all contestants an extra 10 days after the last picture is published in which to arrange their selections.

There are no "strings" tied to this prize offer—we don't ask you to "boost" by collecting subscriptions, or by proving yourself the most popular contestant.

Any person of average intelligence—young or old—can take part in our Familiar Quotations Pastime and WIN THE $1,000 FIRST PRIZE. All that is required is for you to pick titles to a series of sixty interesting pictures depicting familiar quotations.

No attempt is made to deceive—you can find the correct answers by making a search through our OFFICIAL TITLES CATALOGUE. This catalogue contains around 1,500 quotations—or, on an average, 25 to a picture. Nothing hard about picking the "best" answers out of this small group, is there?

To help you submit your pictures in a neat form, and save you the bother of collecting three pictures each day in case you want to give three answers, we have published an OFFICIAL ANSWER BOOK. This book is sold at 80c and contains space for each Pastime Picture with three official answer spaces. Coupons are also provided which can be redeemed for the last 25 pictures.

Sold at $1.20, these two books are ALL YOU NEED TO WIN.

Why not get into the game today? Plenty of time will be allowed to prepare your answers. You can start on an equal footing with everyone else. WIN $1,000!

Sixty illustrations will be published in this newspaper, one every day. You may give three choices of titles, each of which must be written on a separate answer form like the above. Save your titles and send them in all together. Watch The Constitution for details.

STUDY THESE RULES FOR SUCCESS

1. The Familiar Quotations Pastime is open to any man, woman, boy or girl who is a resident of Georgia or adjoining states, except employees or relatives of employees of The Constitution. No entrance fees are required.
2. The Familiar Quotations Pastime consists of sixty pictures, one appearing in The Constitution each day. Each contestant may submit three titles answers for each picture, each on a separate answer form. Selection of titles will be found in the Official Familiar Quotations Pastime Catalogue.
3. The Catalogue of Quotations may be consulted at the office of The Constitution, or at any public library in the prescribed territory of this Pastime. Participants may also purchase copies of this Catalogue at the office of The Constitution at 40 cents per copy.
4. Each person may participate only as one contestant, and only in his or her own name. However each participant may submit as many as six complete sets of titles answers. Each set of answers will be judged on its own merits. A duplicate list of the selections submitted should be retained by the contestant for self-checking purposes. Full instructions regarding this duplicate list will appear in The Constitution at the close of the Pastime.
5. Three methods may be followed in preparing answers: (1) Each picture published during the 60 days of the Pastime will be accompanied by an official Answer Form, with blank ruled lines for the inscription of your choice of title. (2) Participants may submit handwritten (not typed) facsimiles of each picture and answer form on sheets of white paper 5x8 inches. (3) Quotations may be submitted in the convenient Familiar Quotations Answer Book, sold at 80c per copy.
6. Selections of quotations must not be sent in until the close of the Pastime.

Win a Big Prize

Why not win a BIG prize—the $1,000? Someone is going to get it. Why not you?

This is an easy sort of a hunt-and-find game. Anyone with a few spare hours can play it. No matter how many members there are in your family, each may submit an Answer Book of titles.

You don't have to subscribe to win. This is not a subscription contest. All you have to do is pick titles from the Official Catalogue. No college education is required. A little patience is all that is necessary.

Once Aboard the Lugger

Next Week, "Snow Blind"

BY KATHERINE NEWLIN BURT

As a man was hurled, so, plumb out of the gates of Paradise, Bill fell. And now the air was lashed into a fury of sound-waves, tearing this way and that in twenty keys; now the sleeping figure was torn by rushing figures, helter-skelter for life and honor.

Sounds!—the melancholy bellow of that gardener, Mr. Fletcher, as the roof of the bell-mounted blunderbuss he had fired, burst upon the scene; the gravel; the dreadful imprecations of Bill as he strove to clear his leg of the potting box through whose side he had plunged; gurgling yelps from Abraham in ecstasy of man hunt.

Rushing figures!—Bill, freed from his box, at top speed toward the shrubbery; Mr. Fletcher, up from his falls, with tremendous springs bounding across the lawn; Abraham in bustling pursuit.

More sounds—panic screams from Mr. Fletcher, heavily laboring; the protest of a widow roughly raised; from George's head, thrust into the night: "Yi! Yi! Yi! Hup, then! Good! Good! Sick him! Sick him! Yi! Yi! Yi!"

Head sunk sideways: she closed. As we left Mr. Marripit, Mrs. Major, inspired by Old Tom, descended upon him like an avalanche. With shattering thud he plumped heavily to his full length upon the floor; Mrs. Major pressed him to earth.

But that shock was a whack on the head of Old Tom that temporarily quieted him. "What has happened?" Mrs. Major asked, clinging tightly.

Mr. Marripit gasped, "Release my neck. Remove your arms."

"Where are we?"

"You are upon my chest. I am flat beneath you. Release!"

"It's all dark," Mrs. Major cried; gripped firmly.

"It is not dark. I improve movement. Our juxtaposition unnaturally compromises us. It is abhorrent."

Mrs. Major opened the eyes she had tightly closed during the staggering journey and that scattering fall. She loosed her clutch, got to her knees, then tottered to a chair.

Mr. Marripit painfully rose. He regarded Mrs. Major and suspiciously sniffed the air, pregnant with strange fumes.

"Follow me, Mrs. Major," Mr. Marripit commanded, turned for the dining room; from its interior, faced about upon her.

With rare dignity the masterly woman slowly arose; martially she poised against the wall, and then, with a stately march steadily toward him. Old Tom gave a playful little twitch of his legs, and she jostled the doorman.

With old-world courtesy she bowed apology to the post. "Beg pardon," she graciously murmured, snodg swaying.

It was just then that Mr. Fletcher in horror sighted Bill's figure pendant from Margaret's window.

Thrice the bell-mouth of his gun described a shivering circle, tightly he squeezed his eyelids—pressed the trigger.

BANG!

Mr. Marripit bounded six inches—hardly had he reached the air again when, with a startled scream, Mrs. Major was upon him, again her arms about his neck.

And now shriek pursued shriek, tearing upward through her throat. Old Tom had loosed the ends of all her nerves.

George bounded down the stairs. Over Mrs. Major's back, bent from the toes to the rack about which she clung, Mr. Marripit's empurpled face stared at him.

Upon his nephew's countenance the sight struck a great grin; his legs it struck to a dead halt.

"Action!" Mr. Marripit gasped. "Remove this creature from my back. George put a hand upon her back. It shot a fresh shriek from her; she clung closer.

"Pantalon!" Mr. Marripit strained. "Remove this creature from my back. George again laid hands. Again Mrs. Major shrieked, tighter clung.

Joan of the Everglades

BY MILLARD C. HORTON

"Well, what do they do, Uncle Shewbread?" he asked, nervously.

"Old Whitehead says he guards the house and home of Tanglebeard; Eagle-eye accompanies him on his island rambles, but old Hoochin, the she-hag, dwells in a coffin somewhere in the Everglades."

"What became of your wife, Uncle Shewbread?" asked Dave.

"Tanglebeard separated us two thousand years ago and I have never seen or heard of her since."

"Uncle Shewbread, I want to know how you came to speak English so well?" I asked.

"For more than a thousand years I, and an English slave, lived together, worked the same garden, and he taught me how to speak his language."

"Well, Uncle Shewbread, I want to know how you protect yourself from wild animals?" asked Dave.

Then he ran his hand into his pocket and, pulling out a strong looking stone, said: "This is the snake stone which Tanglebeard left for me on the doorstep. The odor of this stone does not bother snakes, but an animal will not come near it."

Thanking him for the wonderful story and history, we assured him we would rescue him.

"No, Master," said he, "I did ask you to free me, but you cannot do it. It would take an army to deliver me, and, of course, I could not expect you to send soldiers to rescue an old, worn-out negro like me."

"We are now on our way to the outer world for an army to rescue you and the boat," I said.

Then he fell upon his knees and cried: "Young Master, save the old negro and give him a few days freedom from Tanglebeard, if it is not too much trouble."

We helped him up, set him in the cabin door and, assuring him that we would rescue him, told him good-bye and started for the boat landing to see Charlie.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Search for Charlie.

Within twenty-four hours we arrived, one morning, eager and anxious, at the landing, but Charlie and the boat were gone. Shocked, we stood dumb and amazed.

"Where is Charlie and the boat?" Dave asked with a sigh.

"I do not know," I said, "but let's look for them."

So for ten hours we searched the forest and the beach for Charlie and the boat, but did not find a vestige of either, and returning at sundown made a bed in the tangles and lay down to sleep, in agony too great to bear. The next morning we awoke and began to consider what to do.

"Dave, I fear Tanglebeard has caught Charlie and has either enslaved him or burnt him."

Dave looked sorrowful and I felt utterly miserable.

"I am sure of that, Bill, but what do you suppose he did with the boat?"

News of Society and Woman's Work

Noted Magazine Editor Boosts Atlanta Clubs

"If the women of the world were as well organized as the women of Atlanta, there would be no war, and this world would, in many ways, be a very different place to live in," said Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke to a group of the women at the luncheon yesterday given by the Atlanta Woman's club in honor of three distinguished visitors. Mrs. Clarke herself, who is associate editor of The Pictorial Review, and founder of the Women's News Service, Inc., which will be launched January 1, Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry, of Berkeley, Cal., and Mrs. R. G. Reynolds, of Paducah, Ky.

Mrs. Clarke, who stopped over in Atlanta on her way to the state convention in Athens this week, declared that she considered the character of the organization of women within the city federation, which is by clubs and ward committees, one of the finest examples of complete organization she had heard of in America, and her speciality in women's activities, women's interests. "If all women were so organized, and then had the spirit of harmony in working together which I see and hear reflected in your Atlanta Woman's club, disarmament conferences and leagues of nations would be unnecessary."

Mrs. Clarke quoted an amusing statement from Lady Rhonda, the English peeress in her own right, whom she entertained recently. Lady Rhonda is seeking for the English women peers representation in the house of lords. "Can a lady be a lord?" was the slogan of this fight, which, for the present has been defeated. Only four members of the house of peers voted to give the women representation, although it took three months to get up such so-called arguments as was brought against it. The most diverting of these, although it was seriously advanced by the lords, is that the law of England says that criminals, felons and women can not be members of the house of lords. Criminals and felons might reform, concluded this remarkable piece of wit, but once a female, always a female.

"I am glad to see that your governor is giving you a remarkable Mrs. William H. Felton her proper opportunity to be great in her own right."

The keynote of a short and snappy talk by Mrs. Reynolds, president of the Kentucky Federation, was as follows: "There is a greater responsibility than ever before attached to the actions of women in organized effort. Therefore, it seems to me that the most important thing for us clubwomen to emphasize, in order to increase our forcefulness is to know thoroughly what we are talking about before we talk and before we act. The education of the world lies with the women, but we must know ourselves before we educate others. There are big things ready to be done. We must prepare ourselves for them. We can not wait for the state of illiteracy, and there is no activity of ours that can not be furthered by the education we get through the various departments of our clubs."

Mrs. Rosa V. S. Berry, an art authority of national recognition, congratulated Atlanta, through the clubwomen on the magnificent display of paintings by the leading artists of America, which are to be shown at the Southwestern fair. "I have been to your fair grounds, at Lakewood and have seen the paintings. They form a display that New York or Chicago might well be proud of."

Mrs. B. M. Boykin presided at the luncheon, which was attended by a hundred women. Informal talks were made by Mrs. Irving Thomas and Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, past presidents of the club; Mrs. Albert Thornton, vice president of the United States Good Roads association, and retiring president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, incoming president; Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, Mrs. M. Cord Roberts, Mrs. Newton Wing and others.

A pretty feature of the occasion was the presentation to Mrs. Clarke of a very smart hat made by the millinery class of the home economics department of the club. This gift, a follow-up of the admiration Mrs. Clarke had expressed at the convention of the general federation at Chattanooga last June for a hat worn by the president of the Atlanta Woman's club, which was the work of this same sewing class.

Guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Collier, at the Georgian Terrace.

Mrs. Harwick Hostess at Bridge-Tea

Mrs. Earl Harwick entertained Monday afternoon at a bridge-tea at the Capital City club in honor of Miss Kate Law, charming bride-elect. The color scheme of pink and white was pretty carried out in the decorations of house and table. In the center of the table was a large wicker basket filled with pink roses and white asters. Encircling this were crystal candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers alternating with mints in silver compotes.

The prize for top score was a hand-painted perfume bottle and the consolation a hand-painted memorandum book with pencil. Miss Law was presented with a Madeira boudoir pillow cover.

The guests included Miss Law, Miss Maude Couch, Miss Joyce White, Miss Lella Ponder, Miss Venice Mayson, Miss Marian Dean, Miss Hallie Poole, Mrs. Edwin Hill, Mrs. Joseph Harper, Mrs. Charles Evans, Mrs. Audley McCauley, Mrs. Roy McCraw, Mrs. Carroll McGaughey, Mrs. Boykin Pennington, Mrs. Joan M. Burke, Mrs. Garry Hall, Mrs. Spurgeon King and Mrs. Kenneth Keyes.

Mukerji to Lecture for Drama League

Dhan Mukerji, the eloquent young Hindu poet-dramatist, will lecture for the Drama League this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Georgian Terrace, on "The Life and Drama." Mr. Mukerji is just back from several months in India and since his previous trip to Atlanta has also been significantly honored by both Oxford and Cambridge universities, having given, by special invitation, lectures at both these places during the summer of last year.

His pictures of India are unforgettable, and his enthusiasm and scholarly rank are of the highest. A large audience will undoubtedly greet one of the most popular lecturers ever brought to Atlanta. Admission to all one $1, and the lecture, which will be preceded by a brief business meeting at 3, will begin at 3:30 o'clock.

Little daughter, Petrea, will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cabanis, at their home on Piedmont avenue. They have leased their home on Clifton road in Druid Hills.

Miss Louise McKenzie, of Montezuma, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Rees, at her home on Moreland avenue. She will be among the out-of-town guests at the Bell-Reeves wedding which takes place on Saturday evening, October 14.

Miss Jane Hyman, of New York, is the guest of Miss Josephine King. Miss Hyman and Miss King will leave November 1, to spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Cruikshank and family have returned to Atlanta and will take up their residence on Thirteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Egbert have returned to their home in Chattanooga after a visit to friends in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Jones announce the birth of a son, who has been named Turner, Jr. He is the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. Ashby Jones, of Atlanta, and Mrs. John A. Lamb, of Richmond, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Candler, Jr. Entertain Bridal Party

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Candler, Jr., gave a dinner party Monday evening at their home in Druid Hills, in compliment to Miss Lula Groves Campbell and George Melvin Ivey, of Charlotte, N. C., after the wedding rehearsal at the Central Presbyterian church.

Chrysanthemums, dahlias and roses were used throughout the lovely home, carrying out the color scheme of pink and white.

There were two tables, the bridal party being at one and the invited guests at the other. The luncheon cloths were of real Venetian lace. In the center of each beautifully appointed table was a large silver basket filled with pink gladioli and dahlias. Encircling the centerpiece were smaller baskets of lilies of the valley and orchids. Pink and white mints in silver compotes were placed at intervals.

Mrs. Candler was gowned in grey broadcloth. She was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Miss Lucy Candler, who wore a handsome evening gown of red satin.

Miss Campbell was lovely in a gown of gold lace trimmed with jade roses. She had a corsage of Ophelia roses.

Covers were placed for Miss Campbell, Mr. Ivey, Misses Louise Cooper, Katherine Ivey, of Charlotte; Louise Candler, Anne Hart, Lucy Candler, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Frederick Howard, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Heard, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Candler, L. K. Martin, of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Stuart Coleman, Dr. Murdock S. Egan, Edward Jones, Thomas L. Miller, Foyville McWhorter, Dr. R. H. Oppenheimer and Dr. W. S. Littlejohn.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

A VIRTUE WITH A BAD NAME.
Give a dog a bad name and hang him.
Give a virtue a bad name and damn it.

And that I think is exactly what has happened to a certain highly honorable virtue in America.

Thrift means economy and frugality in the management of property. It is one of the essential foundations of all success. No man can keep on making a business unless the principles of thrift, which are avoidance of waste and careful utilization of time and money, are used in his business.

No man means to spend money in business without getting an adequate return. And no one questions that that is an admirable attitude. But in the business of living—well, something that is supposed to be a different thing. If a man is thrifty in his use of time and money in his private life, we are inclined to look at him askance, to call him "close," to say he probably has Scotch blood in him. To many minds one could pay no greater compliment but perhaps I am a bit prejudiced for obvious reasons.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How to Make a Remedy for Gray Hair.

A well-known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than forty years, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—(adv.)

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife—Happy Home

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that makes their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells
Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.

Recommend the Vegetable Compound
New Orleans, La.—"I have found relief from my troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I praise it wherever I go. I could not do my work as it should be done for I would sometimes have to lie down because of the pains I had. A friend induced me to take some Vegetable Compound and I have got great results from it. I keep house and am able to do all my own work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine."—Mrs. T. FOSKLER, 1515 N. Desbigny St., New Orleans, La.

Catholic Club To Elect Officers.

The Catholic Club of Business and Professional Women will hold its annual fall meeting Tuesday at 6:30 in the assembly of the Sacred Heart church. Election of officers and annual reports.

The president, Miss Gertrude Corigan, who is calling the meeting, writes to the members:

"We are completing a most successful year of our organization. During the three years of the club's existence we have welcomed into the club new members to our city, who had not been for our body, perhaps would still be strangers in Atlanta.

We have had fun, plenty of it, and we have been very successful in our efforts to help the needy.

Tandy MacKenzie

Will Give Recital For Intime Series

To be discovered by John McCormack, one of the greatest of living concert tenors, is the honor owned by Tandy MacKenzie, the tenor, who sings one of the recitals of the Intime Series presented by the Atlanta Music club at the Kiwanis club auditorium.

It was at a party in Stamford, Conn., that McCormack found me, he said, in discussing the manner in which he happened to take up music as his career. "I was singing, along with the rest of the crowd, when McCormack exclaimed, 'Youngster, you have a gold mine in your throat; didn't you know it?'

"I tried to laugh him down, but he was insistent, and as a result of his urging I gave up my medical studies at Harvard, and went to New York, where McCormack was instructing in voice under the tutelage of William Thorne, teacher of Rosa Ponselle and Amelita Galli-Curci. That was about two years and a half ago, and this is my first season in concert."

Mr. MacKenzie expressed real concern over the press dispatch telling that McCormack had been stricken with throat infection at Minneapolis, and had been compelled to cancel five contracts to return to New York for treatment. "It will be terrible if McCormack should be forced out of music," he said. "He has always been my idol; I believe that he is the finest tenor before the American concert public today."

MacKenzie first met McCormack nine years ago, when he was living at Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, where his father ran a large sugar plantation. McCormack was appearing at Honolulu in concert, and their meeting took place at a party given in the tenor's honor. At that time MacKenzie little dreamed of the voice that lay dormant in his throat.

In fact, during his college course though he had sung, "like all the rest of the fellows," he had no idea that his voice was anything else than ordinary. It was not until McCormack discovered him that he had any notion of a musical career.

MacKenzie lived in Hawaii for 16 years, when his father died and he moved to New York with his mother. He took up medicine, he said, simply because he felt that he would like to be a doctor, more or less in the spirit that every young man who must adopt some business or profession as a life work. He is a robust in build, much as is McCormack, and his features are not unlike those of the famous Irish tenor. There is, however, a bit of a Spanish look about him also, which is accounted for when one knows that his mother was Hawaiian and German. After this season, MacKenzie intends to go to Paris to sing in the opera company. He is now studying for grand opera, keeping his work under Thorne when in New York between concert engagements.

The Atlanta Music club is fortunate in securing Mr. MacKenzie in the art course.

The season sale of concert tickets is now in progress at the Cable Piano company. Music lovers are urged to get the lowest rates of the season tickets.

Citizenship Class Is Great Success.
Mrs. R. M. Striplin, chairman of citizenship department of Atlanta Woman's club, announces that much interest was manifested at the first meeting, held Wednesday morning, October 4, under the leadership of Mrs. A. L. Turman. It is the purpose of the club to give the women of Atlanta, whether members of the club or not, an opportunity to inform and interest themselves along the lines of good citizenship in order to intelligently use and enjoy the new privilege given them as citizens under the nineteenth amendment.

Mrs. Turman is preparing interesting programs in connection with the civic betterment and motherhood classes are given the opportunity of expressing their views in the matter also at each class. At the last meeting, Mrs. Harry Chamberlin, state president of League of Women Voters, introduced Dr. Dorothy Barker of the state board of health, who gave a short outline of her work in the child welfare department and interesting facts concerning the health habits now touring Georgia in interest of the children (future citizens) of Georgia.

The course of study was laid out by the extension department of the University of Georgia for use in women's organizations, the text book, however, to cost 25c.

To members of the woman's club the course is free. To those who are not members, the small fee of $2.00 will be charged. For further information call Mrs. R. M. Striplin, M-407-1.

Mrs. Boykin and Mrs. Striplin join in urging that every woman in Atlanta who possibly can do so avail herself of this opportunity.

The next meeting will be at the Atlanta Woman's club Wednesday morning, October 18, at 10:30 o'clock.

Atlantans Will Motor to Belton.
The marriage of Miss Sara Latimer and Robert Watson, of Washington, D. C., will be a brilliant event of Wednesday evening, October 12, and will take place in Belton, S. C., at the Latimer Memorial church, following a reception at the home of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. A. C. Latimer.

Among the Atlanta relatives who will motor today to Belton to be present at the marriage are Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Brown, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Connolly, Mrs. Hal Hesta, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Latimer, Misses Frances and Mary Wallace Latimer and Carroll Latimer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Mell, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Osey Watson.

Suspended from the chandelier was a large pink crepe paper heart containing the many lovely gifts. When Miss Bell pulled the stem she was showered with gifts and pink rose petals.

Top score prize was an Italian case for cards, consolation a French novelty. The honor guest received a dainty piece of lingerie.

The guests included the bridal party and a few close friends.

DRESS

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Cloth and Velvet Come Back Into Fashion as a Worth-While Combination, for the Reason That Fur is Not Plentiful at the Source of Our New Clothes and Paris Substitutes Velvet.

It is interesting to get behind the scenes where new clothes are created and get a glimpse of the far-reaching reasons that govern the output.

Whether the source is Paris or America, there are industrial, sometimes political reasons, for certain developments in fabrics, in colors, in ornamentation.

Social activities of the public are apt to govern the contour of clothes just as the first motors brought in small hats and the high-topped limousines reinstated large ones; persistent rainy seasons or desperately cold ones bring out Eskimo coverings and curious umbrellas and gambling women brought out jeweled bags of metal mesh.

Industrial reasons govern the scarcity of fur in the new clothes for autumn, the source of which is Paris; the modification and distribution of which is American. Private individuals who own fur are having it put preference to velvet or imitation peltry.

We have the animals which are fashionable, such as beaver, mink, squirrel, raccoon, opossum, fox and seal. We also have fur workers, emigrants from Russia and the Baltic states. Let us then go work on our own peltry. Such is the verdict of France.

In the meantime, the source of clothes for autumn was in Paris, and for this reason we get fur substitutes. We are apt to keep to them. We can use immense wraps and neckpieces to keep us warm; in fact, we prefer these to the fur-trimmed gowns and suits. One of the substitutes for fur is velvet, another is leather. These two are the most popular odds in ends of fur worked into patterns, pieces that were left over from the store houses of precious peltry owned by Paris dressmakers.

This will delight the amateur. Nothing so pleases the home dressmaker as to hear that precious lace and fur are returned to fashion. Nothing so infuriates the professional dressmaker as to have these heirlooms thrust at her when a gown is ordered.

The sketch shows one of the methods of combining cloth and velvet. The color is beige, both in the cloth and the velvet and the latter is used everywhere the cloth is not.

INTERESTING SHERBETS.
Sherbets are an excellent addition to the more than usually elaborate dinner, for they add much in festivity without adding much either in bulk or in cost. Here are recipes for some sherbets that are delicious:

Mint Sherbet.
Mint sherbet is good with lamb in any form. Four two cups of boiling water over a bunch of bruised, fresh mint leaves. Cover and let it stand fifteen minutes. Strain the stock of the stove to infuse, then add one cup of sugar. When the sugar is dissolved strain, cool, add two-thirds of a cup of grape juice and a quarter of a cup of lemon juice. Freeze in glasses, ornamenting the top of each glass with a crystallized cherry and sprig of mint.

Peppermint Sherbet.
Peppermint sherbet is a good addition to any meal. To make it, peel and chop a large pineapple, or else peel and grate it. Cover with two cups of sugar, and let stand until a syrup has formed. Add half a package of crushed peppermint candy, and a cup or more of cold water. The juice of half a lemon may be added if desired. Freeze.

Orange Sherbet.
Orange sherbet, likewise, is always good. Peel together one-half of a two and one-half cups of water and one and one-half cups of sugar. Cool, add the juice of five oranges and one lemon, and freeze.

Strawberry Sherbet.
For a strawberry sherbet, use a cup of the liquid from a bottle of maraschino cherries, the juice of one lemon, three and a half cups of water, the juice of an orange and two cups of sugar. Add half a cup of strawberry juice, and strain and freeze. (Copyright, 1932, by The Constitution.)

Atlantans Are Entertained at Ritz Hotel

The Paris edition of The New York Herald carried the account recently of a dinner given by Mrs. John D. Little, of Atlanta, at the Hotel Ritz in Paris, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nixon, of New York. Her guests were Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Ashton Starke, Mrs. Dixon, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Nixon, Mr. Hoyle, Mr. Roche, Senhors da Guana, wife of the Brazilian ambassador in London, Morris Volek, her son, and Colonel Blanton Winslow.

Mrs. Little and her sister, Mrs. Ashton Starke, of Richmond, have been elaborately entertained by friends during a visit of several weeks in Paris, after a month's stay at a famous French watering place. Mme. de Guana, wife of the Brazilian ambassador, in London, was with Mrs. Little and Mrs. Starke, during a part of their stay in Paris, afterwards joining the ambassador in Geneva, where she presided over the league of nations.

Mrs. Little and Mrs. Starke sailed on October 1 for New York, and Mrs. Little will return to Atlanta about the middle of this month.

Miss Buchanan Honors Bride-Elect.
Miss Lola Buchanan was hostess at a bridge-luncheon at her home in Kirkwood, for Miss Julia Bell, a bride-elect.

Cosmos and ferns, attractively arranged, formed the decorations of the lovely home.

Suspended from the chandelier was a large pink crepe paper heart containing the many lovely gifts. When Miss Bell pulled the stem she was showered with gifts and pink rose petals.

The guests included the bridal party and a few close friends.

Three Brides-Elect Honored at Tea.
Miss Marie Cobb, Vaughn, Miss Susie Hallman and Miss Willie Perry, three lovely bride-elects, were entertained by Mrs. J. Calhoun McDougall, who was hostess at a tea Monday at the Piedmont Driving club, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Strother Lewis, whose marriage was a recent event of interest in Macon.

To Give Dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.
Mr. and Mrs. Coley John Lewis have issued invitations to a dinner on Wednesday evening, October 13, at 8 o'clock, at the Piedmont Driving club, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Strother Lewis, whose marriage was a recent event of interest in Macon.

Mrs. Slattery To Entertain.
Mrs. J. M. Slattery will entertain at a bridge luncheon Wednesday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue.

For the Home Typist.
If, when typing an envelope or card, one wishes to save the space down to the very end, by clipping the top to a larger sheet of paper, it will be prevented from slipping out.

A Light Dessert.
Select six nice cooking apples and cook the same as when making apple sauce. Put through a sieve so there will be no seeds. Boil with 3-4-cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the whites of two eggs very stiff and add to the apple mixture. Set in refrigerator to cool.

THE INVISIBLE HUSBAND

By Margaret Hunter

Who's Who in the Story.

Phyllis Gay, movie queen, who has made a million for every dimple. She has her gown made at Madame Marie's, but little realizes the ambitions she has stirred in the heart of a poor little needle girl who serves the flimsy.

Deborah gets a glimpse of real movie life when she delivers a gown one night to Phyllis Gay's apartment on Riverside drive. Here she meets a Bohemian crowd celebrating a studio party.

Bertie Reeves, press agent for Phyllis, offers refreshments to Deborah and laughs when she drinks plain lemonade.

Finkenberg, a fat and prosperous director, admires Deb's big brown eyes. The story is true that Phyllis owes everything to Finkenberg, who lifted her to fame from her humble place as a manicurist.

Fritz, the most popular director in the plant, promises to give her a test. He inquires whether she is any relation to Larry Demarest, and is no less suspicious of the denial than a group of extra girls who gossip and make fun of Deb.

Johnnie, an ex-chorus girl, extemporizes Deb. Although her stance is shocking, Johnnie is bluff and kind. She proves a comfort when Deb is discovered by an unpleasant encounter with Finkenberg, and the disappointment of being entirely unrecognized by Larry Demarest. Bertie advises Deb to take pointers from Phyllis—no smile, be pretty, and cater to the type.

Johnnie advises her to be a baby type.

INSTALLMENT No. 14

Deborah Learns to Smile.

Johnnie went down to the studio with Deborah at the stroke of the hour. Fritz had appointed to make the test. Deborah was disappointed and a little alarmed to find no sign of the director, but Johnnie advised optimistically.

"Say, you don't suppose he'd hurry for you, do you? He has a million things to attend to, and it doesn't make any difference how long you wait. The only thing that bothers me about this hanging-around-and-waiting-business is that we can't smoke cigarettes."

"I can't smoke," Deb said shortly. She began to feel superior and annoyed with Johnnie's conduct; rather condescending she remarked, "Really, Johnnie, if you could think of something else for a change, you might get somewhere. You know you attract only what you reflect, and if all you think about is cigarettes and good times, and the days when you were in the chorus, how do you expect to elevate yourself?"

"Who wants to be elevated? Johnnie laughed, but into her eyes crept a strange shadow, and her voice was not so merry as she concluded, "Maybe you'd rather be alone. I might as well go home anyway; the school scene is over, and Lord knows when Fritz will need me again."

"If you only work in cabaret scenes how did you come to be in the boarding school? Deb asked with a little revival of interest.

"Oh," Johnnie paused, and then confessed rather desperately, "Well, I was hungry, and the landlady was holding my valise. I came around begging Fritz to stir up an underworld plot, so I could get a job to work, and he's so kind-hearted, he said I'd sit in the rear and keep still, he'd let me be a school girl. Isn't that a scream? It's a wonder he didn't tell me to go back and write on the blackboard."

Deb was amazed. "You mean that's why he told you to hide your face in a book when they got the camera?"

"Sure," Johnnie admitted good-naturedly. "Sure, that's what he meant—don't let your face get in the picture—I've heard that before! Say and when he finds out how I stuck my foot out in the aisle, he'll have a fit. But I figured some director might see the picture run, and say, 'What a pretty ankle!'"

"Johnnie you're hopeless."

Voices across the studio floor came to announce the approach of Fritz and Finkenberg.

"Gee, I'm going," Johnnie cried as she saw Finkenberg.

"Why?" Deb gasped weakly. She never appreciated Johnnie more than at that moment when Finkenberg's black eyes were coming closer and closer.

"Whatever he wants with you, he won't be needing a witness, I'm sure," Johnnie said enigmatically, and despite the clinging hand of Deb, she left with only the parting whisper, "Be careful of him, dearie. He's rather a beast. May be rough and all that, and not always out with my chaperon, but I ain't never stood for any of Finkenberg's foolishness yet. Maybe that's another reason I'm still in the mob."

"That's the type," Fritz was saying, and Finkenberg fixed his eyes upon Deborah in a manner that needed no specification. "Well, take a rest—I believe she's just the build for that mountain girl in Demarest's new picture."

"Like to take a trip to the mountains?" Finkenberg asked carelessly. Deborah could scarcely meet his gaze.

"You mean . . . ?"

"We don't mean a thing," Fritz cut in rather brusquely. "Mr. Finkenberg thinks you have a good screen personality, and after the test, we may give you a chance—that's all—"

YOU CANNOT HAVE BEAUTY

If Your Complexion Is Marred by Blemishes.

It is a well-known fact that beauty cannot be if the complexion is in any way marred by pimples, dark skin discolorations.

If you suffer any of these skin blemishes begin at once the use of Black and White Beauty Bleach.

This delightfully perfumed cold cream compound will make the skin clear, smooth, delicately tinted and remove unsightly blemishes. When applied it forms an invisible coating on the skin. The regular use of Black and White Soap will keep the skin in perfect condition.

All good stores can supply you with Beauty Bleach at 50c a jar, Black and White Soap at 25c a cake.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The A B C of Retailing," Etc.

When you buy kitchen or cooking utensils a good maxim to remember is "the best is the cheapest." Just try different grades and you will appreciate the truth of this statement. Cheapness is the average kitchen article means that there is a flaw somewhere, or that the goods have been hastily and carelessly manufactured. Naturally, this means ill-shaped or defective utensils.

You may save a few cents on a kitchen article, but you will find such article as spoons with soldered or riveted handles separate from the bowl on the first real test of heat or strength. Enamelware which cracks and chips or to which food sticks the first time it is heated indicates the difference between good and poor quality utensils.

It is possible to illustrate dozens of articles which will give bad or unsatisfactory wear because of their cheapness. It is certainly advisable to pay a little more while you are buying and thus secure better wearing qualities and far greater satisfaction. Your kitchen utensils more than almost any other article in the average house are subjected to heat, quick and often careless handling in cooking, water, dampness and other elements which quickly test the endurance of the article. It does not pay to take chances, therefore, and to buy an article say for 75 cents and have to replace in three months, whereas, if you had spent, say $1.50 in the beginning, your article would have given you for a year or two and perhaps longer.

With home furnishing upmost this month, we talk tomorrow of ranges and their purchase.

Dinner-Dance at East Lake Club.

The regular week-end dinner-dance at East Lake club was a delightful occasion, featuring many dinner parties.

Tables grouped in the sun parlor and dining room were prettily decorated with French baskets of fall flowers.

One of the largest parties was given by Fred R. DiCristina, in honor of Miss Cobby Vaughn and Harry E. DiCristina. Covers were laid for Miss Cobby Vaughn, Miss Margaret Vaughn, Miss Evelyn Patterson, Miss Winnie Perry, Miss Lucy Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ragsdale, Frank Tidwell, Gerald Blount, Edwin Ransberger, Owen Southwell, C. DiCristina, of New Orleans, La.; Fred R. DiCristina.

Another lovely dinner party was given by Carl Ashbury, complimenting Julia Bell and Mr. Reeves. The table placed in the private dining room was beautifully decorated with silver baskets filled with pink roses and purple butterfly blooms. Unshaded tapers in silver candlesticks shed a soft glow over dainty cupid favors marking the places of each guest.

Covers were laid for Miss Julia Bell, Miss Louise Lorenzi, Miss Julia Ponder, Miss Eloise Lewis, Miss Gartner (Gilbert), Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Wynne, Mr. Reese, John Bell, Roger Saunders, Tom Matson, Dan Maner, Carl Ashbury.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reilly entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, of St. Louis, Mo., and W. T. Gould, of Jacksonville, Fla. Completing the party were Mrs. J. C. Wilson and Miss Catherine Daisey.

Others dining were P. B. Zolch, Miss Estelle Lindsey, Dr. R. E. Lattau and Miss E. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ragsdale.

The wedding reception was held immediately following the ceremony and beside the bride and groom, in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Cannon, parents of the bride, and Mrs. Sarah Williams, mother of the groom.

The guests were hidden to the dining room for refreshments, where Messieurs Harry Howard, of Rockwood, and Ben Bruff, of Knoxville, presided. They were assisted by Mrs. Joe Hall and Misses Mattie Mae Browder and Mary Craig Carter.

Club de Ving To Open Classes.

The Arthur Murray school announces opening of the Club de Ving this week. Beginning Monday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, two classes will be held every afternoon of the week. There will be no change in the last year's schedule, the boys and girls attending the same afternoon they met before the Club de Ving was abandoned for the summer. A new class will be formed of children from five to seven years of age. A number of parties will be given for the ten groups of the Club de Ving.

JUST DRAGGED SO WEAKENED

Florida Lady Was In a Miserable Condition, But Says She Found Cardui Helpful, and Got Well.

Blountstown, Fla.—In explaining how she found Cardui so helpful during change of life, Mrs. Ella M. Bailey, of this place, said:

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt like I couldn't give up."

"I just dragged, and I certainly was nervous. I was so restless I could not sit down long—yet so weak I couldn't get about. It is a most miserable and such a helpless feeling."

"I would get depressed and out of heart."

"I began to feel, after awhile, there was no use to try and get well. This is all wrong, for it makes a person worse."

"I had heard of Cardui, and thought it might strengthen me. A neighbor had used it with good results."

"I took one bottle (of Cardui), then I saw I wasn't so nervous, so kept it up."

"Gradually the nervousness left me. I began to eat and sleep better. Was soon well, and all right."

"Cardui did wonders for me, and I certainly do recommend it."

"Thousands of other women have written, to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others."

"Cardui has stood the test of extensive use, for more than forty years, in the treatment of troubles common to women."

Good druggists, everywhere, sell Cardui, the woman's tonic. Try it. —(adv.)

Old Home Town Yields Homage To Mrs. Felton

Childhood Days Recalled by
First Woman Senator in Dedicator Speech.

Dedicator, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) The community of her birth and early childhood days paid homage to Mrs. W. H. Felton, first woman to be named United States senator.

In the DeKalb courthouse tonight, she revived memories of her childhood days in DeKalb county before a large audience, and expressed her hope to see the interest of Georgia to the best possible purpose.

"It is a great honor that has been conferred upon me," said Mrs. Felton. "I hope to be worthy of it. The good wishes of the people of DeKalb are very inspiring to me."

The meeting was presided over by L. D. Field, who introduced Governor Hardwick. The governor in turn introduced Mrs. Felton in a speech that told of his admiration for her good work in Georgia. Mrs. Felton, who shows little signs of the 88 active years she has passed in public work in the state, consumed only about 20 minutes in her speech.

At the conclusion of the speech Governor Hardwick was recalled to the platform by members of the audience for a statement of his candidacy to succeed the late Senator Thomas E. Watson. Declaring that he had not prepared to address the audience, the governor spoke at some length on his platform.

He told of his stand against the league of nations, asserting that he was the first senator to oppose a union by America with foreign nations, and that subsequent events had justified this stand.

"I still am prepared to work against this government's being entangled in a foreign powers scheme," said the governor. "Other statesmen and candidates have since understood the wisdom of this attitude and now every candidate in the race for the late Senator Watson's seat is taking the same view of the matter."

The courthouse was almost wholly filled with a crowd gathered to witness the event.

War Veteran Appeals For Atlantans' Help In Death of Mother

In need of funds to defray funeral expenses and to send the body of his aged mother back to her home town in Massachusetts, Thomas H. Casey, who until recently was a rehabilitation patient at the government hospital in Biltmore, N. C., Monday night appealed to warm-hearted Atlantans to come to his aid in his financial distress.

Casey, whose mother died suddenly at the Brookwood station Saturday, just as she arrived in town on a visit to him, explained to The Constitution that he has sufficient funds with which to send the body back to Worcester, Mass., but that he lacks the money to pay the local undertaker who prepared the body for burial.

"It is not my intention to ask charity," declared Casey, "for I can repay the money just as soon as I clear up my mother's estate. I have the deeds to property owned by my mother in Canada and also receipts for household furniture stored in Massachusetts, which is considerably more than the amount I need at present."

"To be in such a financial position is indeed painful. I have sufficient funds to defray expenses of taking my mother's body back home but cannot pay the undertaker's bill. If some generous hearted person in Atlanta will help me I shall truly regard it as a tremendous favor and just as soon as I can adjust my mother's estate, I will repay him."

James O'Brien Dead.
South Buffalo, N. Y., October 9. (Special.)—James H. O'Brien, father of Mrs. Julian W. Camp, of Atlanta, died this afternoon after a brief illness at his home here, 741 Ashland avenue. He also leaves a wife, Elizabeth O'Brien, and a son, Harold O'Brien, of Buffalo. Interment will be Wednesday morning in Buffalo.

GRANT DECLARES HE WILL NOT GO TO EUROPE AGAIN

New York, October 9.—Ulysses S. Grant, eldest son of the civil war general, who arrived here yesterday on the steamship Finland, says he will never go to Europe again. Mr. Grant, who is a lawyer of San Diego, Cal., was accompanied by his wife. He said that he believed Americans were hated in Europe and mentioned specifically an affront which he received on a train bound from Amsterdam to Berlin.

JOSEPH GREENE, 6, IS KILLED BY AUTO

Columbus, Ga., October 9.—Joseph Douglas Greene, 6-year-old son of Major D. T. Greene, of West Point, N. Y., student officer at the infantry school at Fort Benning, was run down and almost instantly killed here yesterday night by a motor truck. According to information at police headquarters, the machine struck the child as he attempted to cross the street. He died on the way to the hospital. The body will be sent to West Point, where Major Greene had been attached to the department of tactics at the military academy.
